Drop In County Jobless Rate

KINGSTON

Earlier predictions that Ulster County's jobless rate would soar to 13.5 percent this year so far do not seem to be materializing.

The latest figures of the New York State Department of Labor how that there was a slight drop in the number of unemployed here in July. Industrial Commissioner Louis L. Levine reports that there was an 11.4 percent rate of unemployment in Ulster County in July, down two tenths of a percent from the 11.6 percent reported in June. A year ago July, the rate here was 6.3 percent.

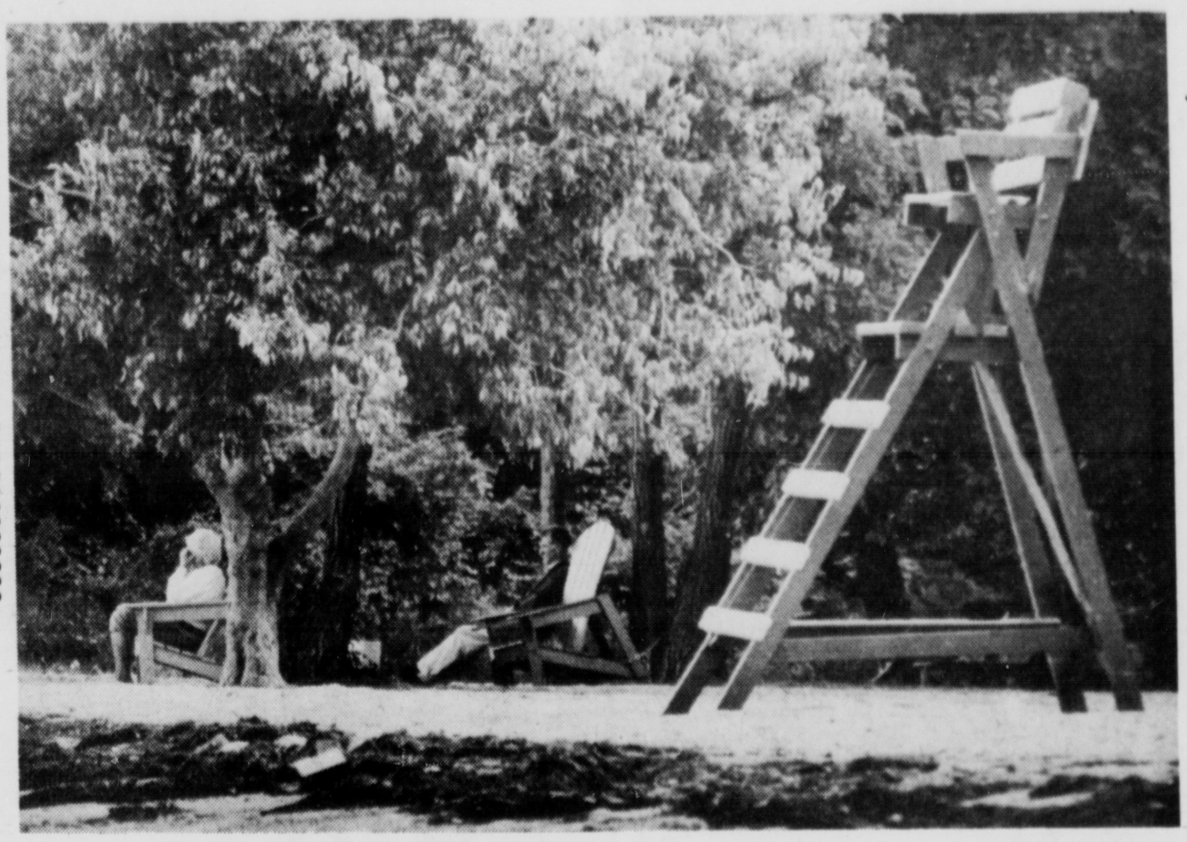

In July of this year there were 58,200 persons employed and 7,500 unemployed compared with June and it 58,900 employed and 7,700 unemployed.

Ulster County's unemployment is still higher than the state average of 10.7 percent in July but below New York City's 12 percent and Erie and Niagara counties 13.8 percent.

Although it is too early to know if the slight drop in unemployment here is the beginning of a trend, the number of persons receiving unemployment benefits has also dropped steadily since mid-July when 6,105 persons were receiving benefits. That number has now dropped to 5,385 as of Aug. 15.

Ulster County neighbors to the east, Dutchess and Putnam counties are faring far better with Dutchess County's unemployment rate in July at 6.6 percent and Putnam's at 9.7 percent. Rockland County to the south reports a 9.3 percent rate of unemployment for the same period.

Statewide unemployment also dropped slightly in July to 6,899,600 compared to 6,968,100 in June and 7,165,800 in July 1974.

Farewell

A few hardy souls seek last sun of the season at Kingston Point Beach. The holiday weekend marked the close of summer fun as fall previewed a mite early. Temperatures in the city cooled to 54 degrees early today and forecast calls for continued cool and breezy through Thursday. Turning foliage portends the advent of autumn. (Freeman photo by Carey)

Ellenville Residents To Vote for Fourth Time

By Carl Graham

ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville Board of Education in special session Tuesday night voted to put up again four of the seven school budget propositions turned down by district voters Aug. 25.

The meeting was shifted to the elementary auditorium after 250 persons showed up and Board President Kenneth Beck had to pound his gavel and finally threatened to clear the room as feelings ran high and numerous members of the audience took a vocal part in the proceedings.

Teachers strike two upstate school districts. Story on page 3.

The four propositions to be voted on from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 19, include $115,950 for instructional supplies, library books and rental musical instruments; $30,886 for interscholastic sports and co-curricular activities; $86,250 to restore bus transportation to district limits of seven-tenths of a mile for elementary and one mile for secondary pupils; and $27,970 for a school cafeteria.

The vote will be the fourth for residents of the Ellenville district. Two attempts to get a full budget passed were turned down before the Aug. 25 defeat of the seven separate budget items.

The board acted after being given a 1,231-signature petition calling for a revote on the four items. The board ignored a suggestion from the audience that all seven items (including teacher's aides, adult education programs, and student activities and commencement activities) be voted on again. It also ignored a suggestion from Ben Miller, the board's BOCES representative, to separate the items lumped together in the instructional supplies item.

The board voted to pay head coach Peter Meoli and assistants Lance Lewin and Gary Siamon to coach football this fall. Superintendent James Evergetis said he would not permit practice today unless the money was voted because insurance would be voided if practice was not supervised by qualified personnel.

The board engaged in a long discussion, with Morris Posner saying he was opposed because the public had voted down the sports program. Board attorney Benjamin Lonstein said that the board, if it failed to vote the money, would negate a vote taken at its special meeting last Thursday night to approprate it.

Bernard Wainer, publisher of the Ellenville Press, drew applause when he told the board "There's a credibility issue involved. A group raised $1,500 (for interscholastic sports) on the basis of what the board passed Thursday night."

The meeting saw an unusual occurrence, with a motion that had been defeated being reintroduced and passed. The board, with seven members present, had voted 4-3 to hire a combination art teacher and rest period replacement for other teachers on the recommendation of Evergetis, but the motion failed for lack of a majority of the nine-member board. Later, after Jack Siegel joined the board, Evergetis made the recommendation again. This time Siegel joined the majority for a 5-3 vote and approval of the appointment.

The board tabled action on a report from Evergetis establishing prices for the cost of instructional supplies, which must be borne directly by parents of school children under an austerity budget. Evergetis said that dividing total costs of supplies by the number of pupils gave a cost per pupil of $27.50 but that figuring elementary and high school costs separately gave figures of $20.60 and $31.11 respectively.

The district will conduct registration for the special election from noon to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 13. Sol Sashin, district clerk said that taxes had already been levied for th year and that any items approved in the special election would have to be funded by borrowing.

They Walk for Rides

The opening day of school found Ellenville school district parents and pupils staging a walkathon march this morning along Route 209 from Napanoch to Ellenville as a protest against cuts in bus transportation voted in the Aug. 25 school election. The school board voted Tuesday night to put transportation and three other defeated propositions back on the ballot Sept. 19 after receiving a 1,231-signature petition. If approved, the proposition would restore district limits seven-tenths of a mile for elementary and one mile for secondary pupils from present state-mandated limits of one and two miles. Wilbur Landfill Proposal Rejected; City Will Seek An Alternate Site

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

Residents of Wilbur won a battle Tuesday night —they got the Common Council to reject the proposed regional landfill off Chapel Street by a 10-3 vote—but the city still faces the increasingly serious problem of where to dump its refuse.

Last night's Common Council followed months of protest by residents of Wilbur and two community meetings in that area that drew hundreds of persosns, but most observers believe it was the 2,000 signatures gathered city-wide and submitted last Friday that proved decisive.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig had no comment on the council's action today stating that "I will make a decision when I see the legislation." Koenig has said on more than one occasion that the Chapel Street site is the only acceptable alternative the city has to its present (soon to be depleted) landfill at Kingston Point.

Prior to voting on the landfill issue, the council was shown a color film of the proposed 88-acre site by WHITA. It was narrated by Harry M. Thayer, a member of WHITA's board of directors. Mrs. Alice Tipp, former president of WHITA and Walter Donnaruma also made statements against the regional landfill recommended last March by the Greater Kingston Area Joint Municipal Solid Waste Survey Committee. (All of the aldermen were familiar with the topography of the area; they toured it six weeks ago).

The council, which recessed for an hour and a half, came back and got right to work on the landfill issue beginning with Alderman Peter J. Mancuso's motion to reconsider legislation on the subject tabled last month. Alderman Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward) seconded it.

The motion to reject the Chapel Street landfill site referred to pollution, inaccessibility of the site, high cost of development and the loss of tax property.

Opposition came from Aldermen Philip DeCicco (D-Ninth Ward), Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) and Henry F. Dreiser (D-13th Ward).

The crux of the opposition was that the city was not addressing itself to the problem "by walking away from Chapel Street."

The legislation requires the Joint Municipal Survey Committee to continue to look for alternate sites but Sinsabaugh for one stated that the committee was an entity in name only. Mancuso, the 12th Ward Democrat, noted that only the city had approved the survey committee's extension.

Sinsabaugh took to task some of the residents of Wilbur who had fought the Chapel Street project due to the possibility of pollution. He noted that the present landfill (at Kingston Point) was in Hudson River tidal water where pollution was far more serious. "Where were those people when the issue of pollution was raised at Kingston Point?" he asked. He termed many of the arguments against the Chapel Street site "poppycock" and warned that if the city did not find an alternate site soon that the garbage would pile up on the sidewalks."

Sinsabaugh likewise rejected suggestions that alternative sites were available in the Town of Ulster. "It's and election year out there," he said "They don't want our garbage."

Dreiser said that some of the brickyard sites that had been mentioned would not prove feasible. "There's no seepage in brickyards," he said.

"We need help and we need it bad," Dreiser said. "We had one place that might have helped us and we threw it away here tonight."

Morris Salkind, leader of the Concerned Citizens of Greater Kingston that spearheaded opposition to the Chapel Street site, said his group would continue to work with the council to find alternate sites. "We don't think abandoning Chapel Street site in itself is the complete answer," he said. "Alternatives do exist. They are available."

Salkind said he saw no need to go to a referendum on the Chapel Street site—the reason for the 3,000 signatures. He saw no possibility of the city coming back to Chapel Street. "It's a very far-fetched possibility," he said. "I don't think 10 members of the council could turn around and contradict all the reasons that they gave. I don't think there's any possibility of that."

Legislature to Name Deputy Highway Boss

KINGSTON

Although the regular meeting of the Ulster County Legislature is only about a week away, Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8) has called a special meeting of the county board for tonight at 7:30 in the County Office Building.

Savago moved to act quickly on the appointment of a deputy superintendent of highways and the repair of the Silver Hollow Bridge because both actions are of great importance, he indicated.

The county has been without a highway superintendent since Jose Camallonga Jr., resigned abruptly in mid-August in the midst of two investigations into the conduct of his office. Since that time the department has been run by three employes, all general highway foremen—Paul Mercier, Richard Gray and Abraham Ellsworth.

The Bridge and Highway Committee which met recently, recommended to the legislature that a deputy be named until a new highway superintendent can be appointed. To date two candidates have advanced their names for consideration for the post—Kennth Smith of Saugerties and John Salapatis of Kingston.

Bridge and Highway Committee Cairman Eugene K. Noe (R-Dist. 8) said that his committee has received a number of applications for the permanent post but that it "has no one in mind" at present.

Results of hearings for two Ulster County Highway Department employes are also pending the appointment of a superintendent or deputy superintendent because according to law, Hearing Officer James Fisher cannot report his findings until he has a department head to which to report them. Decisions in the cases of Joseph Scully and Thomas Leahy, charged with failure to report for work, are being held up for lack of a department head. Leahy was also charged with alleged insubordination. A third employe, John Bowman was also removed from his post by Camallonga for failure to report to work and the case was dismissed by Fisher several weeks ago.

Quick action on the Silver Hollow Bridge repair is demanded in view of the Shandaken Fire Department's refusal to allow fire trucks to cross it until it is in good condition. At present, 80 homeowners in Chichester are without fire protection.

Ulster County Legislature plans on paying for 50 percent of the cost of repair of the town-owned bridge.

Board Would Watch 'Allowance'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new plan to save financially distressed New York City from default would transfer to a state-dominated board of overseers virtually the entire fiscal administration of the city.

The complicated proposal, presented Tuesday by the Municipal Assistance Corp., is to be considered by Gov. Hugh Carey for submission to a special session of the state legislature Thursday.

The plan includes a more than $2 billion financing package to see the city through the end of November as well as recommendations for elimination of New York's $3.3 billion deficit.

Carey met with President Ford Tuesday to seek ways for the federal government to help the city. But White House spokesman Ron Nessen said, "The President made no promises, no commitments." Nessen said Ford felt "federal assistance is not the solution to New York City's problem."

The governor said he was "encouraged" by the talks.

Under the MAC plan, an Emergency Financial Control Board — to be composed of the governor, the mayor, the state comptroller, the city comptroller and a fifth member to be selected by the governor — would be responsible for preparing accurate estimates of New York's annual revenue.

The revenues would be placed in a special account, a provision which effectively puts the city on an allowance.

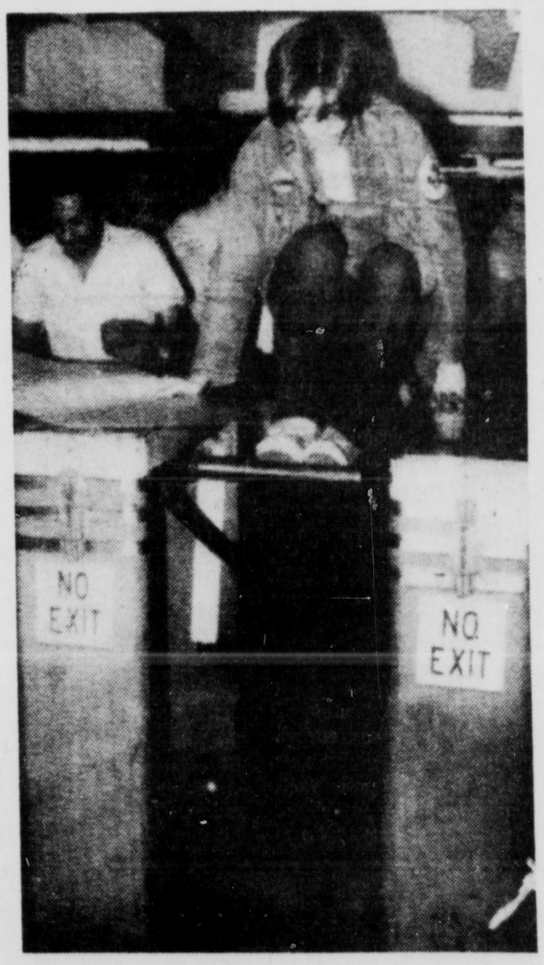

The mayor would be able to spend the money on any programs he deems appropriate as long as he does not exceed the board's estimate.

The board also would have the power to audit city agencies, review programs, approve all city contracts and proposed borrowings "for compliance with the financial plan."

City officials who permit the expenditure of funds in excess of authorized amounts would be subject to criminal penalties and removal from office by the governor.

In the event of default, the board would divert money to maintain vital services.

To accomplish this and give the board time to develop a rehabilitation plan for the city, creditors would be required to give the city 30 days' notice of plans to sue for collection. The city could file a petition for a 60-day stay of court action.Meanwhile several dozen arrests were made Tuesday in gate-crashing incidents to protest the new 50-cent bus and subway fare, but most New Yorkers took the boost in stride.

Soviet Plane Mystery

LONDON (UPI) — One of 103 passengers aboard a Soviet Aeroflot flight from New York to Moscow was shot to death today in an incident shrouded in diplomatic secrecy.

The Ilyushin 62 aircraft made its scheduled stopover landing at London's Heathrow airport and was immediately surrounded by security guards. The Soviet ambassador, Nikolai M. Lankov, was summoned.

The Soviet embassy called the shooting an accident. Scotland Yard launched an immediate investigation but said there could be few details because "this is a diplomatic incident."

The plane had taken off from John F. Kennedy International airport in New York and touched down at Heathrow at 10:15 a.m., slightly behind schedule. The shooting was believed to have occurred just before landing.

"This is a diplomatic incident and we have to treat it very carefully," a police spokesman said.

Police went aboard the aircraft with a photographer and closed the door behind them.

City Man Arrested on Rape Charge

Police Beat

KINGSTON

A young Kingston man was arrested Tuesday by Kingston Police on two felony charges in connection with the alleged rape of a 27-year-old woman early Saturday off Clinton Avenue.

Police charged Thomas Garfield III, 20, of 17 Clinton Avenue with first degree rape and second degree assault as the result of the alleged attack on the woman.

According to authorities, the victim, who was not identified, was walking along Clinton Avenue during the early morning hours Saturday—on her way from one night spot to another—when Garfield allegedly attacked her, choking and punching her, and dragged her to the rear of 244 Clinton Avenue where he allegedly raped her.

After the alleged assault, the woman called police and was taken to Kingston Hospital, where she was treated and later released.

Following his arrest late Tuesday by members of the detective and uniformed divisions of the Kingston Police, Garfield was confined without bail pending court action.

Arrested were John V. Newkirk, 29, of 216 Main Street, Saugerties, and Maurice Luther, 29, of Route 212, Saugerties.

Authorities said the alleged incident occurred on property of the Penn Central Railroad West Shore Division, about one-quarter mile north of Ulster Avenue in the Town of Saugerties.

Taken before Saugerties Village Justice David Goble, the two men pleaded guilty and were each fined $150.

Schnectady, Shenendehowa Teachers on Strike

By UPI

Today was the first day of classes for 20,000 pupils in Schenectady and nearby Shenendehowa, but not for the teachers.

Teachers in both upstate districts, in what union officials say could be the first of as many as 18 teachers' strikes this fall in New York State, voted Tuesday not to enter the classrooms.

School officials said they planned to run the schools with supervisory personnel, substitutes and volunteers.

Teachers without contracts in several other districts in the area have set up informational picket lines, but have not threatened immediate strikes.

Daniel C. McKillip, a staff member of the New York State United Teachers, said the two strikes were the first to hit the 750 school districts in the state.

New York City schools, which face a possible strike, do not open until next week. Progress was reported Tuesday in the dispute between the city and the 60,000-member United Federation of Teachers. UFT president Albert Shanker had previously termed a strike a "10 to one" possibility.

This fall's school openings saw nearly a third of the state's districts facing contract deadlocks with their teachers' unions.

"To the best of my knowledge," McKillip said late Tuesday, "there are still up to 260 districts which are at one point or another of impasse, of which 16 appear to be potential strikes within the next two weeks."

He said salaries, class sizes and job security were the prime issues in nearly all of the disputes.

McKillip said two Long Island school districts, Half Hollow Hills and Middle Island, were the most critical.

However, a spokeswoman for the state's Public Employment Relations Board, which has been feverishly working with the most critical districts to resolve the disputes, said the number of unsigned contracts was "dropping rapidly," with at least a dozen signed in the last 24 hours.

The state's Taylor Law forbids strikes by public employes such as teachers. A teacher found guilty of violating its provisions faces a loss of two days pay for each day on strike. A tenured striking teachers also faces the loss of tenure for one year.

Chicago schools were closed, teachers manned picket lines and police were on duty in classrooms today. Strikes also were threatened in school systems in Los Angeles and Boston, and pestered the Detroit area and portions of California.

Chicago Schools Supt. Joseph Hannon ordered schools closed Tuesday night after teachers voted overwhelmingly to strike today — the scheduled opening day of classes. Instead, the 530,000 students had an extended summer vacation.

Principals, other school staff members and any teachers choosing not to honor the strike were ordered to report for work. Police were called into schools to protect them.

Chicago teachers also went on strike in 1969, 1972 and 1973. Renewed negotiations were scheduled for today in an effort to end the latest walkout.

In Boston, Teachers Union President Henry Robinson said 80 to 90 percent of the teachers who voted approved an authorization to strike Sept. 22 "if no reasonable offer is made (by the Boston school committee) by then."

The old contract for 4,000 members of the union expired Sunday. The union agreed to delay any strike until later this month in order to allow opening of city schools under Phase 2 of court-ordered desegregation in a "safe" and "less-confusing manner."

Longshoremen Load Grain Ship

By United Press International

Longshoremen lost a second court battle and finished loading a ship with 20,000 tons of American grain bound for Russia, and AFL-CIO President George Meany brought his vocal support for the dockworkers' grain boycott to a sympathetic audience today.

Loading of the freighter Anna M resumed Tuesday night at Reserve, La., after federal judge Alvin Rubin in New Orleans ordered members of the International Longshoremen's Association to finish the job.

They had quit Sunday in protest against the grain deal, which the union and Meany said would raise food prices for American consumers.

Meany, in a letter to to state labor leaders released Tuesday, accused critics of the boycott of trying to drive a wedge between farmers and labor.

He was expected to continue his defense of the boycott in a speech later today to a convention in Washington of the Seafarers International Union, a maritime union backing the ILA action.

"Loading started at six," said Al Chittenden, president of ILA local 1419 in Louisiana. "We hire up at 4:30 and we just told the men to go ahead and load this particular ship." He said the union would appeal the court order.

The Anna M is the first Russian-bound vessel docked at a Mississippi River grain elevator since the ILA announced its boycott.

One-third of all U.S. grain shipments go through New Orleans, expected to be the departure point for a substantial share of the grain sold to Russia. Other grain is shipped through Texas and West Louisiana ports.

Longshoremen at Houston refused to load two ships two weeks ago, but a federal judge ordered them back to work.

Trenton Has Water Shortage

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Some 250,000 persons in this capital city and four surrounding communities had virtually run out of water today because of a breakdown in the filtering system.

Factories and stores were closed today, the opening of school was delayed and most state, county and city workers were told to stay home in declarations of emergency issued by the governor and the mayor.

Residents were told to boil whatever water was left before drinking it.

A breakdown in a water filtering plant caused by two broken valves cannot be fixed for several days, a city civil defense official said Tuesday.

About 250,000 people live in the affected area. They were asked to conserve the small water supply left, and avoid flushing toilets, but few complied.

"Cooperation is probably nil right now," said Melvin Ruhl, Trenton's acting deputy civil defense director. "People are very worried and are filling their bathtubs and sinks."

"The biggest problem is fire," Ruhl said. "If we have a fire we've got trouble."

Fire trucks with self-contained water supplies were parked at curbsides around the city. Tank trucks filled with water were stationed around the city and its suburbs to provide limited water supplies for residents.

The city's available water supply was reduced to about 8 million gallons Tuesday as Gov. Brendan yrne issued his emergency declaration.

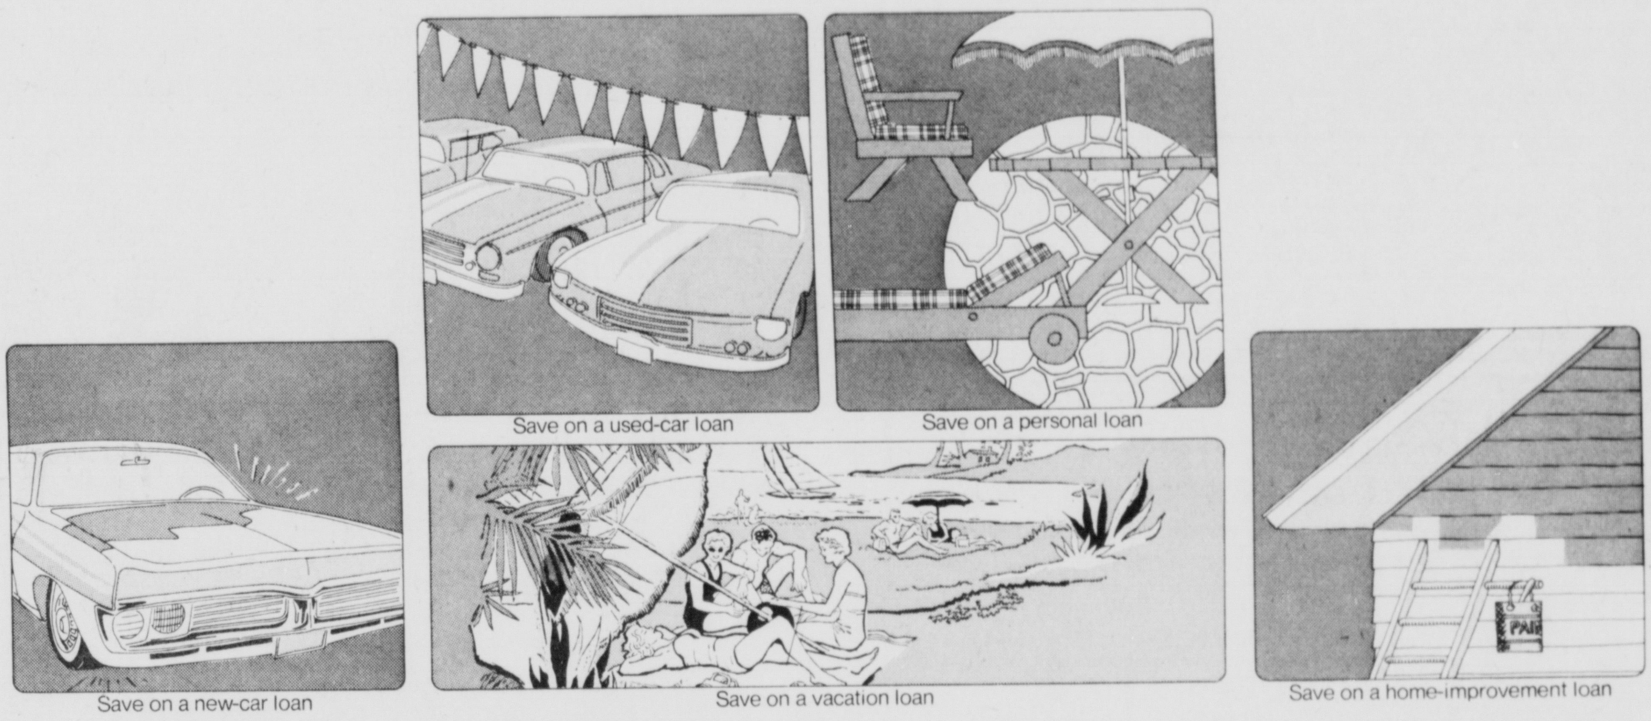

The city water system normally uses about 35 million gallons daily.

Byrne ordered 85 percent of the state's work force of 30,000 employes to stay home today or report to offices in other cities. The governor and his staff said they would relocate to his mansion in Princeton.

Major industries made plans to curtail or shut down operations for the rest of the week.

'Sadat's Gamble' . . . Egyptians Are Now Hoping It Pays Off

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Egyptians call the new Middle East settlement "Sadat's Gamble" and the stakes are as high as can be —war versus peace.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat must convince the other garab countries that by signing the agreement with Israel he is saving, not betraying, their future. To do this, he must take a number of calculated risks.

The Libyans, Iraqis and Palestinians are among those most firmly opposed to a new military disengagement accord in the Sinai Desert.

"Egypt betrays the Arabs," read the banner headline in a Kuwaiti newspaper recently. "Egypt to Sign the Humiliation Accord," echoed a Beirut newspaper.

Sadat is gambling on his ability to contain the criticism and stem Egypt's growing isolation from the Arab radical majority for following Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's road toward peace with Israel.

It is still too early to tell if he will succeed.

Sadat is also gambling on Kissinger's ability to negotiate an interim Golan Heights settlement between Syria and Israel to follow up the Sinai pact.

This would disprove critics who charge Egypt is selling out its Arab neighbors to arrange a separate peace with Israel.

For while it is clear that the terms of the Sinai pact will offer immediate benefits for Egypt, it is far less clear how they will help other Arabs.

Egypt will get a retarn of the Sinai up to the Mitla and Gidi mountain passes and the valuable Abu Rudeis oil fields lost to Israel during the 1967 Middle East war.

Sadat needs both if he hopes to revive Egypt's long-stagnant economy, which he says has been so sapped by wars and fears of more fighting.

From a Sinai agreement, Egypt will get back just enough territory to move the incomeearning Suez Canal out of the range of Israeli guns and make the waterway area for muchneeded investments.

Sadat is supported in his peace bid by Egyptians still buoyant over the victory they feel they won by crossing the Suez Canal in the 1973 war. They feel they are now negotiating from a position of strength.

The Syrians, whose army was badly mangled on the Golan front, and the Jordanians, who kept their front out of the war, can hardly feel so generous.

They fear that Egypt's conclusion of a separate peace with Israel can only freeze them out of the negotiating picture.

Sadat faces another sort of opposition from hard-line Arab states such as Libya and Iraq, which have nothing to gain by a Sinai settlement and nothing to lose if it falls through.

Libya's strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy and Iraq's Saddam Hussain have long based their bid for political popularity on their warlike stance toward Israel. But they can afford it because the geographical dangers of war are remote.

Campaign the Same

ATLANTA (UPI) — Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton says members of the Ku Klux Klan now wear business suits, not robes, to conventions. Robes and cross burnings are mainly ceremonial.

Imperial Wizard James R. Venable contends the Klan is not much different from any other secret society, such as the Masons or the Knights of Columbus.

Klan leaders all insist they are working through the establishment for goals they think are needed to keep America great. They even have a candidate for president, Dale Reusch of Ohio.

But Ku Klux Klan literature is as strident as ever. The campaign against blacks, Jews and Catholics has not changed.

For example, a book by Venable, last updated in 1974, states: "One drop of Negro blood in a white man's veins does not create another white man. It creates a Negro, forever kinking the hair, flattening the nose and thickening the lips. Also, it forever dulls the intellect ... "

The book says that while the Klan is not anti-Catholic, "It pities all Catholics in their foreign papal enslavement and prays that they may be free of it."

Lumping some of the enemies of the Klan in one sentence, Venable said, "We now know that the greatest group of salesmen we have for our cause are the Kennedys, the Martin Luther Kings, the Jake Javitses, the Goldwaters, and all the swine rabbis of Jewism."

The Klan originally was founded in 1869 in Tennessee. Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, a Confederate Army veteran, was the grand wizard and as the organization spread to other states the state leaders, known as Grand Dragons, usually were men who had been prominent Confederate Army officers.

The purpose of the Klan in those days was to control former black slaves and to offer protection against white carpetbaggers trying to exploit the South during the days of reconstruction. It eventually was disbanded by Forrest.

The Klan was revived in 1915 at Stone Mountain, Ga., with a rally on property then owned by the Venbable family. The original Klan had the respect of many in the South but the revived Klan and its offshoots have been condemned in all parts of the country.

During the 1920s it was connected with lynchings and whippings of blacks. Sometimes Jews and Catholics were targets.

It is estimated as many as four million Americans belonged to the Klan in both the South and the North during its high-water mark in the 1920s.

Venable says there now are 42 separate and distinct organizations known as the Klan in the United States. The two largest are his group, the National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and the United Klans of America headed by Shelton in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Presidential candidate Reusch is the Ohio grand dragon of the United Klans and Scott Nelson, who had been nominated as the vice presidential candidate but dropped out to the race last month to run for mayor of Houston, is imperial wizard of a group known as the Texas Fiery Knights of the KKK.

The present position of the Klan regarding Catholics indicates something of a disagreement.

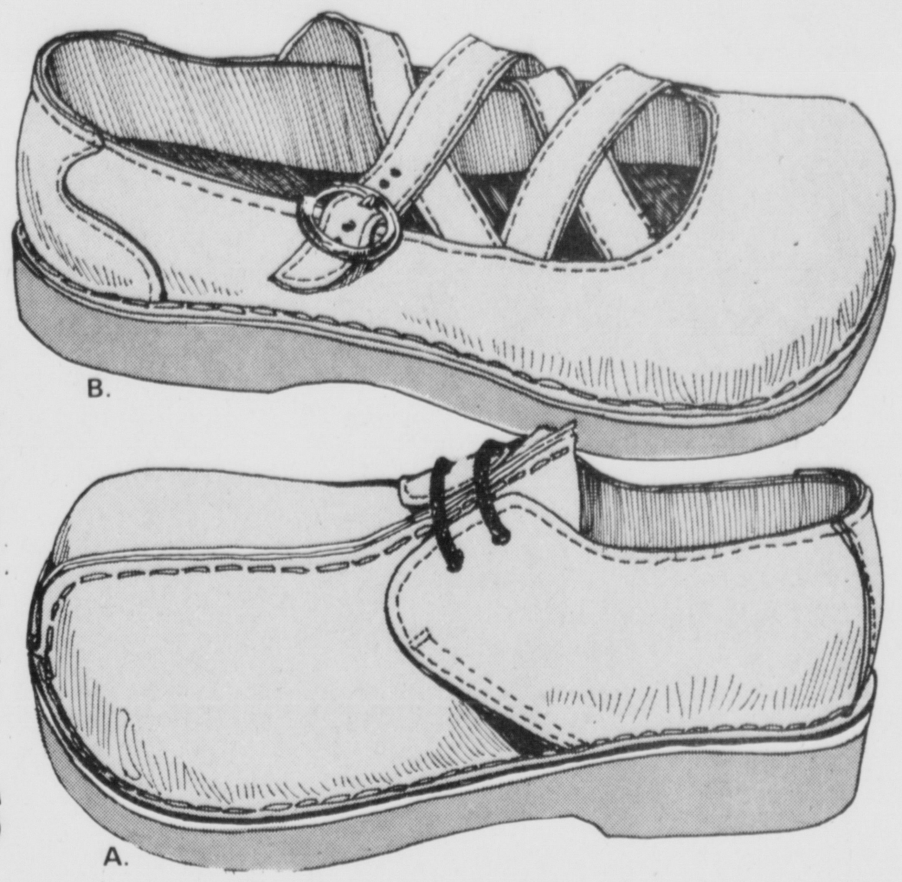

Reusch said in December, as he announced his candidacy for president, that Catholics can apply for membership and that in Ohio more than 50 percent of the members are Catholics. He said this was a national program.

Venable disagrees emphatically. When asked about Reusch's statement, he said, "He was wrong. A Catholic, if he renounces his ties to the Pope of Rome, we accept him." But Venable indicated he thought his qualification would rule out "good Catholics, loyal to their church."

Venable, a 70-year-old attorney, later said of Reusch, "He's probably playing politics. He's got it in his head to run for president.

"First of all, the Klan can never get on the ticket. The Klan could never get a candidate elcted at this time. The South could never get a candidate elected at this time. I don't think George Wallace even has a chance to get elected President."

Efforts to Kill Million-Dollar Restoration Referendum Fail

KINGSTON

Efforts by Friends of Historic Kingston to have a million dollar referendum for the restoration of the old city hall at 408 Broadway taken off the ballot this fall apparently fell on deaf ears at Tuesday night's Common Council.

Edwin Ford, first, and then George V. Hutton, spoke on the subject of the referendum which will ask the public whether the city should spend up to $1 million on the 103-year-old building—the state has promised up to $500,000 in matching grants—but there was almost no reaction from the aldermen.

Alderman Peter J. Mancuso agreed with their proposals, but then Mancuso has been on "the side of city hall" ever since he led the fight against the move downtown during the late 60's. In fact, Mancuso was commended by Ford for his proposal that the city repair the old building, move back in, and rent out the new one in Broadway East.

Ford and Hutton also took exception to the overall $1.5 million figure contending that the city had offered no substantiation for its figures. Ford characterized the destruction of the old city hall as "tearing down the familiar to erect th monstrous."

Hutton offered figures to show that if the city spends $300,000 on the building—with the state spending $300,000—a 20-year bond issue could be paid off at a cost in rental of $1.27 a square foot.

Hutton concluded by stating, "When you remove the guts of a city you'll eventually have a gutless city."

In other action, the Council approved by an 11-1 vote a $208,000 revenue anticipation note requested by Mayor Francis R. Koenig for the new swimming pool at Andretta Park off Dietz Stadium.

Funds are expected in equal shares from the state and from the Andretta Foundation. The only questions raised were from Alderman Brian D. Smith (R-Third Wrd) who said he had thought the "whole thing was cut and dried" and who took exception to paying up to 7.5 percent in interest for up to a year. "This is a routine paper transfer," said Alderman John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward), chairman of the Finance Committee. "We're not transferring any money."

The Council also granted a four-month license for Hudson Cement to off-load coal on North Street on land owned by the city. The firm recently switched from oil to coal and is building permanent loading facilities.

Under an agreement negotiated by the mayor, the firm also contributed $60,000 to Penn Central for repair of its tracks while stipulating that it would only ship coal from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekdays.

Aldermen James Howard (D-Seventh Ward) and Philip DeCicco (D-Ninth Ward) expressed concern for safety in their wards, Howard over t he tracks themselves and DeCicco over crossings. Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein was instructed to write the railroad on both matters.

Letters were read that had been exchanged between the law firm of Ryan, Bradley and Kerr of Green Street and the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency concerning the Gulf property on North Front Street. Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) corrected and erroneous report that the lawyers wanted the property for new law offices. They represent the Prudential Insurance Company in the request. It was referred to Sinsabaugh's Community Development Committee for study.

The first reading of an amendment to the city charter formally establishing the number and location of city volunteer fire companies was read.

The Council agreed to publicly advertise for leases on the old Twaalfskill firehouse in Wilbur for educational nonprofit use.

Bids will be let on a minimum of a five-year lease at a minimum of $500 a year for five years. Mayor Koenig has final approval of all agreements.

Brian Smith raised a question about the city—in thi0 case, the mayor, alderman-at-large and 13 aldermen—sending out letters to residents whose polling place has been changed due to reapportionment. He questioned the legality of using city postage and city envelopes for such purposes. Corporation Counsel Klein said it was proper.

The letters notify persons of being moved, detail where they voted last year and where they will vote this year and advise them to contact any of the signatores if they have questions.

Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo recessed te meeting in memory of former Alderman Thomas R. Davitt (R-Seventh Ward) who died recently.

We Hold These Truths...
A Chronicle of America

Summer-Fall, 1775:

This is open season on royal governors. Among the fallen and falling: On June 2, North Carolina's Governor Josiah Martin takes refuge at Fort Johnson on Cape Fear, and escapes July 18 to HMS Cruzier; he finally departs the colony after the Battle of Moore's Creek Bridge in February, 1776. Virginia's Governor John Murray Dunmore flees to HMS Fowey at Yorktown on June 8, but awaits defeats at Great Bridge on December 9, and at Gwynn Island on July 10, 1776, before leaving for good. In July, Governor John Wentworth of New Hampshire takes refuge aboard a British man-o'-war; similarly with Sir William Campbell of South Carolina on September 15, and with William Tryon of New York on October 30. On November 7, the Rhode Island Provincial Congress deposes Governor Joseph Wanton. When the war begins, only Connecticut's Jonathan Trumbull — among all the royal governors — remains loyal to the colonial cause.

Postal Subsidies

The federal government, never hesitant to subsidize anything from sex studies to research on the migratory habits of the gypsy moth, is allowing its subsidy of the Postal Service to be phased out over the next few years. Rather than this, Congress should be moving in the opposite direction of increasing government support of the mails. The United States is the only major nation in the world which expects its mail system to make money. For this reason, the old Post Office was abolished and replaced with the Postal Services amidst grand promises of economy and speedy delivery.

What we have seen take place, instead, is inferior mail service at higher rates. The last two postmasters-general have come on the scene broadly confident that they could straighten out the system. Each has failed and a frustrated public is paying the price for this failure. Adding insult to injury, the Postal Commission just last week voted another increase so that a first-class stamp will cost 13 cents by Christmas. For those with large holiday mailing lists it would be cheaper to take out a small newspaper ad.

A proposed piece of legislation now in the congressional hopper asks a 20 percent subsidy of the postal service. This bill is receiving strong support as a step in the right direction. Unquestionably, the archaic Post Office with its bureaucratic inefficiencies should not be resurrected but the Postal Service should be exactly that — a service and not a profit-making organization. If this is not done then mail service will be priced out of the reach of many lower income persons. Let our representatives in Washington spend federal subsidies wisely and where they will benefit the most people.

FBI's Blackmail File on Dr. King

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Senate Intelligence Committee is investigating allegations that the FBI tried to smear the late Dr. Martin Luther King by spreading stories about his sex life.

Some senators regard this as a classic abuse of police power. It will get special attention, therefore, from the committee.

Dr. King won the Nobel peace prize for his nonviolent crusade to gain equal rights for black Americans. He faced the police dogs and fire hoses of Southern sheriffs without flinching. His cry, "We shall overcome," stirred his people.

Dr. King's rhetoric, however, led him into a collision with the late, powerful FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover. This became one of the famous feuds of the 1960s.

Senate investigators are now trying to determine whether Hoover used the FBI to carry on his vendetta against Dr. King. They want to know who ordered the snooping and who leaked the sex stories to the press. They are also searching for FBI agents who participated in the actual surveillance of the civil rights leader.

We were the first to reveal on May 24, 1968, that the FBI had tapped Dr. King's telephones. We reported that the wiretaps had divulged information about his alleged love affairs, a subject that was none of the FBI's business.

Now, more than seven years later, we have dug deeper into the story for the answers the senators are seeking.

There is bitter disagreement over who first suggested that the FBI eavesdrop on Dr. King. But in October 1963, Hoover obtained — some say wangled — a memorandum from then-Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy authorizing the controversial wiretaps.

The official justification was to determine whether Dr. King had any secret ties with the Communists. But the only secret dealings that the wiretaps revealed were with women. His dynamism and courage had made him attractive to many women.

Here are examples of the sort of smut that the FBI collected about the Nobel prize winner:

—The FBI bugged his suite in Washington's elegant, old Willard Hotel. He allegedly drank too many "Black Russian" concoctions, bragged of his sexual prowess to a woman visitor and then proceeded to prove his boast.

—In Las Vegas, Dr. King allegedly picked up an FBI informant who reported to the FBI next morning that he had paid her $100 to spend the night with him.

—Another time, he allegedly became intoxicated and made passes at a woman in a New York City hotel. The secret FBI summary of the incident reported that "King threatened to leap from the 13th floor window of the hotel if this woman would not say she loved him."

—The CIA forwarded a raw, unverified report to the FBI that Dr. King, totally naked, chased a woman through an Oslo hotel during his Norway visit to receive the Nobel peace prize.

—The FBI also monitored Dr. King's relationship with the vivacious wife of a Los Angeles dentist. The FBI called it an "illicit affair." The woman insisted the relationship was "merely a friendship."

—As part of its continuing surveillance, the FBI bugged Dr. King's hotel suite in Atlantic City during the 1964 Democratic convention. But apparently nothing of significance was picked up. The FBI continued its electronic surveillance of Dr. Martin Luther King, according to our sources, until his death in April 1968. The latest secret sex report we saw was dated Feb. 20, 1968.

In other words, the FBI continued listening to Dr. King's most private conversations for nearly five years. Yet during all this time, the FBI picked up no evidence that he had committed a crime or was likely to commit one. J. Edgar Hoover's boys just kept filling up folders with titillating tidbits, idle gossip and vicious slander about the great Dr. King. His FBI dossier can only be described, therefore, as a blackmail file.

Indeed, we can prove that FBI officials tried to peddle embarrassing items about Dr. King to newsmen. Our FBI sources also say that Hoover's loyal sidekick, the late Clyde Tolson, sent the Willard Hotel tape anonymously to the civil rights leader's wife, Coretta King.

But the blackmail, apparently, didn't work. Dr. King's close friend and associate, Rep. Walter Fauntroy, D.-D.C., told us the late leader was fully aware of the FBI's surveillance and wasn't the least deterred by it.

He didn't even mind if newspapers published the blackmail information because he felt it would hurt the FBI more than himself, said Fauntroy.

Footnote: After Dr. King's death, the FBI continued to monitor the activities of his successor, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy. We showed him a secret FBI report, detailing a conversation he had held with his wife. He said it could only have come from a bug in his bedroom.

In fairness, it should be added that the present FBI director, Clarence Kelley, has taken the FBI out of the blackmail business completely. Under Kelley, the FBI is an honest and honorable law enforcement agency as can be found anywhere in the world.

Inside Report

Henry Kissinger's Tour de Force

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Hnery A. Kissinger's latest tour de force of Mideastern shuttle diplomacy has brought frowns rather than smiles to high officials back in Washington who have this private complaint: we have paid far too much for too little.

The source of their complaint is secret aid assurances made by Dr. Kissinger to Israeli ambassador Simcha Dinitz in Washington. Although Israel's breathtaking new aid request of 3.3 billion for next year will surely not be met, the Israelis agreed to a Sinai settlement only after a secret understanding that they will receive more U.S. aid than ever before —probably between $2.5 billion and $3 billion.

Thoughtful policymakers here fret because this lavish expenditure has bought so little. Even Kissinger's defenders concede progress on the Syrian front is unlikely and an overall settlement not even imaginable. Rather, there is fear here that the aid promised Israel could so drastically distort the Mideast's military power balance that the latest Kissinger triumph will, ironically, reduce the region's stability.

Accordingly, ugly questions are being raised in official Washington as the good news rolls in from Jerusalem and Cairo. Did Kissinger promote a Sinai settlement in preference to a general Mideast peace conference in Geneva mainly to refurbish his own political standing here? Such questions, hich an angry Kissinger in private attributes to "sickness" in Washington, are being raised not by fanatical Kissinger-haters but by sober colleagues in the administrations.

The answer to Kissinger's motives depends on just how likely was a new shooting war between Israel and the Arabs if there were no Sinai agreement. Although a few officials believe the danger was negligible, Kissinger's warning of imminent war is accepted by some of his critics. But even while granting the necessity for the latest Kissinger shuttle, there is little room for exultation over its cost and consequences.

The cost became apparent about two weeks ago when Israel raised the ante on its aid request of the eye-popping $3.3 billion, including some $2 billion in U.S. military hardware. One key U.S. official told us chances of Israel getting $3.3 billion are "exactly zero." But Israeli military specialists who visited here last week understand that and still are satisfied with Kissinger's unrevealed promise.

Whatever the exact amount, Israel is sure to emerge from the Kissinger shuttle with immense military superiority in the Mideast. Contrary to the misimpression among the U.S. public and Congress, Israel is much stronger militarily today than it was on the eve of the surprise Egyptian attack in October 1973 and could easily win a two-front war. Any extra hardware increases that advantage.

Consequently, just how much aid Kissinger has promised secretly becomes critical. If it is close to the requested $2 billion in sophisticated hardware, military experts fear it would so unbalance arms in the Mideast that Arab states would be panicked. The result could be, in the short run, Arabs returning to Moscow for arms, in the long run, war—two calamities Kissinger has toiled for years to avoid.

Yet, Kissinger had to guarantee much of the Israeli request to avoid opposition to the Sinai settlement from Shimon Peres, Israel's hawkish minister of defense. In justification, supporters of heavy Israeli aid say Israel is more secure and more apt to be conciliatory with a sophisticated arms supply assured.

Past experience, however, has indicated precisely the opposite: military superiority directly proportionate to Israeli intransigence at the bargaining table. Moreover, considering popular Israeli opposition to the Sinai concessions, there is no hope whatever for serious negotiations on the Syrian front. Nor does anybody here believe the Sinai settlement leads one step closer to a successful Geneva conference.

More likely, the latest Kissinger shuttle may lead to annual repetitions of massive Israeli arms requests. The $3.3 billion is no one-time proposal. Officials here fear Israel might want $3.5 to $4 billion a year into the next decade.

That Kissinger will be returning home from this shuttle not in failure but with an initialed agreement carries some side benefits. It may lead the House to reverse itself on Turkish aid. Chances for Congress approving Hawk missiles to Jordan will be improve. And Henry Kissinger will seem a little more like the diplomatic miracle-maker of yesteryear.

For how long? "About one month," replies one State Department official, who sees congressional probing on grain shipments to Russia, SALT agreements and CIA intervention in Chile quickly pressing in on the Secretary of State.

The reason for such impermanence is that the second interim Sinai agreement, like the battle of Blenheim, may well be interpreted as a "famous victory" purchased at great price with minimal effect.

Black Bart the Po8

It was cool in the High Sierras in summer 100 years ago. John Shine permitted his four black horses to walk a rise near Copperopolis, California. In the stagecoach below his perch, Shine had two passengers, a strongbox and a large green sign which stated: "Wells Fargo Express."

At the top of the hill an apparition stepped into the road. It wore a flour sack mask with two eyelets, a long white linen duster, and carried a shotgun. John Shine reined the horses.

"Please throw the box down," a deep voice said. John lifted the box —two feet by one by one—threw in into the road. "If he dares to shoot give him a solid volley, boys," the voice said. Shine saw several guns aimed from behind trees.

The robber broke the box and stuffed the linen duster pockets with gold coins. A woman passenger became hysterical and tossed her purse into the road.

The stranger picked it up and handed it back inside the stage. "Madam," he said courteously, "I do not wish your money." The driver noticed that the robber's feet were wrapped with cloth. It was a device to make it difficult—if not impossible—to track him.

Wells Fargo had dealt with bandits before. This one was different. He sounded like a cultured gentleman. A half-hour after he departed, John Shine saw that the guns behind the trees were nothing more than sticks, tied to trees. The man had done the job alone.

A month later, the robber held up a Wells Fargo stage coach near Duncan Mills on the Russian River. This time, he left a poem with the driver:

"I've labored long and hard for bread
For honor and for riches,
But on my corns too long you've tred
You fine haired sons of bitches.
Black Bart, the Po8."

It was a faint clue. The newspapers made a folk hero of the lone bandit noted for his courtesy, for not shooting anybody, and for writing doggerel. By 1876, "Black Bart the Po8" was famous. Families in the West hoped that he would not be caught.

In 28 holdups, he never took more gold than he needed. His total was $18,000, barely enough to keep a gentleman in fine cigars and a decanter of sherry. His dire enemy was James B. Hume, head of Wells Fargo's security force. Hume was one of the first of the scientific detectors.

Hume gathered intelligence by questioning every one of Black Bart's victims. For a while, it looked like a lifetime task. Stage driver Reason McConnell was at the bottom of Copperopolis Hill on a sunny day. Jimmy Rolleri, a growing boy, sat on the box beside him. He had a gun; he was going hunting.

Jimmy dropped off the box and said; "I'll meet you at the other side of the hill." At the top, Black Bart waited, gun levelled. The driver stopped. The gold box was bolted to the floor. Black Bart ordered McConnell to unhitch the two teams and walk them over the mountain.

Bart took his time. Jimmy Rolleri joined McConnell. The driver took the rifle, sneaked up the hill, and fired at Black Bart as he was walking into the forest. Rolleri snatched the rifle and fired once. Black Bart staggered, dropped something, and disappeared.

James Hume sorted the things Bart had dropped. There were field glasses, a derby, a razor, a knotted kerchief full of buckshot. One corner of the handkerchief had a laundry mark: "F.X.O.7."

Hume acted like a hound on the scent. He roamed up and down the California coast showing the laundry mark; "Know this mark? Ever see it?" At last a San Francisco laundry proprietor said: "Why yes. This belongs to Charles E. Bolton, a customer who stays at the Webb House Hotel."

Hume found Black Bart and arrested him. He dressed elegantly, carried a black lacquer cane, and wore a neat gray mustache. The year was 1883. Hume asked Black Bart, whose true name was Charles E. Boles, to pose for a full-length photo. The bandit obliged.

Boles despised work. It was sufficient labor, he felt, to work on foot robbing Wells Fargo. The trial judge reduced all the counts of armed robbery to one. Boles pleaded guilty and served six years in San Quentin.

There the gentleman learned to play cards. Unfortunately, the prisoners didn't. Black Bart, middle-aged bandit, left prison in his own coach and matched horses . . .

Nursing Homes Face Penalties

KINGSTON

Two of Ulster County's largest and most modern nursing homes have again been classified as "operationally deficient," and a spokesman for the New York State Health Department says both could be penalized if the necessary corrections are not made shortly.

The Hudson Valley Nursing Center in Highland and the Hutton Nursing Home in Kingston have both been termed operationally deficient in the "administrative services" area in the state health department's latest report on its nursing home enforcement activities.

Specifically, the health department alleges that Hutton Nursing Home is operating without a utilization review committee and a pharmacy committee, both of which are considered necessary for the proper and efficient operation of a nursing care facility At the same time, the state alleges that certain of its administrative policies have not been put in writing.

That latter charge also applies to the Husdon Valley Nursing Center, according to the state. In addition, a health department spokesman said there has been evidence of staff dissatisfaction at the 40-bed facility.

Those same allegations were leveled by the state on June 3, and again on June 27. According to a spokesman at the health department's regional office in White Plains, "The situation remains the same...as far as the department is concerned, there has been no improvement."

If that is, in fact, the case, the spokesman was asked, how much longer will the health department tolerate the supposed violations? "Not much longer," was the answer. "We're hoping for a resolution of the problems this month. If we don't see some improvement, fines could be assessed."

When the allegations were first made in early June, spokesmen for both facilities vehemently denied the charges. James Scuderi, administrator of the Hutton Nrusing Home, said on June 6 that both state-mandated committees were in operation at the home, and that all policies had been placed in writing. He said that any delays that might have been caused in the implementation of those standards were the result of rapidly changing state regulations.

The health department, however, still insists that Hutton has not conformed to hthe state requirements.

Spokesmen at the Hudson Valley Nursing Center likewise denied the state's allegations in early June. They claimed, in fact that they were never notified by the health department that anything was amiss at their facility.

But the health department spokesman said that the facility has been consistently appraised of the alleged violations since early June, and that no attempt has been made to correct them.

Both Scuderi and officials at Hudson Valley Nursing Center could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

ARRESTED

New York State Police Tuesday arrested this person and about 65 others at the Great New York State Music Fair in Syracuse on charges of disorderly conduct. Most of the arrests stemmed from people attempting to crash the concert and throwing bottles and rocks at the troopers. Approximately 60,000 people attended the concert. (UPI)

EPA Urges Litigation Against PCB Discharges

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has been urged to begin litigation against firms discharging the toxic industrial chemical PCB into the Hudson River.

The request was made jointly by the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) and the Hudson River Fishermen's Association (HRFA). It comes less than a month after the Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) revealed that certain species of fish caught in the Hudson River contained levels of polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB) dangerous to humans.

Specifically, the two groups urged the EPA to begin immediate litigation to compel the polluters to undertake major pollution abatement efforts within the next few months; to annouce that it will soon begin to enforce a no-dischare policy for PCB's; to declare a moratorium on dredging activities on the Hudson to avoid stirring up PCB's concentrated in river bottom sediments.

"EPA has known about the high concentration s of PCB's in Hudson River fish for almost a year," said a spokesman for NRDC, "but has taken no decisive action to curb the flow of PCB's into the Hudson. Congress gave EPA emergency powers to use in situations like this where the public health is threatedned. EPA should initiate legal proceedings in line with those powers immediately."

In a letter to EPA administrator Russell Train, the two groups stated that "the Hudson supports an intense recreational and sport fishery" and that an estimated "22 million pounds of Hudson River striped bass are consumed each year from both commercial and sport catches."

The U. S. Food and Drug Administration has determined that any concentration of PCB in human food above five parts per million should be considered unsafe. Striped bass and minnows taken from the Hudson River about 50 miles north of Albany had PCB concentrations ranging between 78 and 350 parts per million, and striped bass caught near the Tappan Zee Bridge averaged 5.7 parts per million.

Scientific studies have determined that PCB is a cancer causing element which affects the reproductive systems of humans and the spawning capabilities of fish. It is a widely used ingredient in the manufacture of paints, plastics, printing ink and electrical transformers.

The two groups, noting that "it is now almost impossible to catch fish in the Hudson which can be considered safe to eat under existing Food and Drug Administration contamination limits," reminded EPA that it is authorized to take emergency action in federal court whenever a serious threat to public health or commercial fisheries exists.

Earlier, the Hudson River Sloop Restoration Committee urged the EPA to take definitive action to halt further discharges of PCB into the Hudson.

Teacher Protests State Practices

KINGSTON

A teacher in the Saugerties Central School District protests what she terms "discriminatory" state pension practices against older retired teachers.

Dortothy K. Lacey of Kingston stated in a letter that older teachers must work ten years longer than younger teachers, hired after 1959, in order to receive the same 75 percent retirement pay.

The formula used in the 1970 law has teachers working before 1959 receiveng 1.2 percent retirement per year worked, and those working after 1959 receiving two percent.

Thus, the younger teacher could work 37.5 years for the full 75 percent retirement pension from the state, while a teacher who has worked 24 years prior to 1959 must add another 23.1 years, or a total of 47.1 years, in order to receive the same peniion.

She noted that there were 29,500 of these older retired teachers in New York State as of last summer. "These same teachers are subject to the whims of the legislators as to whether or not they should get a cost of living supplement to their pensions," she added. "This is a disgrace and belittling to the professional teacher, especially those with many years of service."

She also pointed to discrimination between the Civil Service Retirement System and the Teachers Retirement System, with all civil service members getting the two percent ratio when they retire.

Income-Eligibility Scale

Onteora School Lunch Policy

BOICEVILLE

The Onteora Central School District has announced its policy for free and reduced-price lunches for children unable to pay the full price of lunches served under the National School Lunch program.

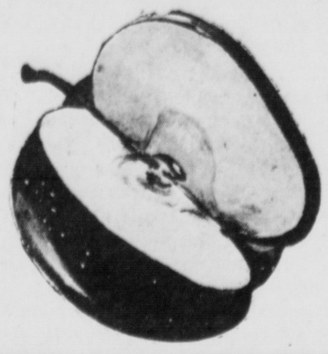

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for determing eligibility for free lunches (the number of children in the family followed by the maximum income limit for eligibility): one, $3,230; two, $4,240; three, $5,250; four, $6,260; five, $7,190; six, $8,110; seven, $8,950; eight, $9,750; nine, $10,550 and ten, $11,310. The maximum income limit is increased by $750 for each additional member.

The eligibility criteria for reduced price lunches are: one child, $4,520; two, $5,930; three, $7,350; four, $8,770; five, $10,060 six, $11,360; seven, $12,530; eight, $13,700; nine, $14,770; ten, $15,840. The limit is increased by $1,050 for each additional member.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price lunches. In addition, families not meeting these criteria, but with other unusual expenses due to high medical expenses, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses, are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application, according to school officials, will be treated confidentially and used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

You'll be paying the bill, so let Congress know your choice!

Congress is about to make an important decision that could affect the cost and gas mileage of your car for years to come.

Since you will be paying the bill, we thought you should be aware of two major alternatives being considered by Congress right now. They concern the control of emissions from cars. Should the standards governing automotive emissions be made even stricter than they are today? Or are they strict enough now? Take your choice.

Choice 1

The President and his Administration have evaluated the pros and cons of current law governing emissions and recommend that the standards for today's cars be extended for five years.

Results

- There will be continued improvement of air quality as new cars replace old cars. (Compared to pre-controlled cars, today's standards result in reductions of over 80% for hydrocarbons and for carbon monoxide and about 40% for oxides of nitrogen according to industry data.)
- Working with current standards, automakers can meet their individual commitments to the President and improve industry-wide gas mileage between 1974 and 1980 by an average of at least 40%.

Choice 2

Present Federal Law calls for even stricter emissions standards for 1977-1978 model cars than those required today. Some members of Congress favor these stricter standards.

Results

- Stricter standards would add only marginal improvement to air quality. (California is an exception. It has a special air quality problem and has its own special standards.)
- To our knowledge no auto manufacturer yet knows how to meet the 1978 standards on a mass production basis. Current "best effort" experimental systems however indicate the following fuel economy and cost penalties:
  - —your gas mileage could be reduced by 5% to as much as 30% according to publicly stated company estimates
  - —the cost of your car could increase by an estimated $150 to $400 according to company estimates in statements to Congress.

Where do you stand?

These are the choices. We thought you ought to know what they are, and what they will mean to you as a customer. Your United States Senators and Representative should know what you think. Write to them.

Let your U.S. Senators and Representative know your choice.

THE PAVILION KNOWN FAR AND WIDE

A Former Showplace Being Returned to Its Victorian Splendor

By Tobie Geertsema

ANCRAM

More than unusually ornate for a structure so small, it had weathered the snows of some hundred winters; offered refuge from the sun of the same number of summers. It was one of the last of the summer houses that had played a lively part in high society life as it had been pursued on the estates of America's earlier millionaires. But now it stood in the way of new Columbia County Route 7. Once a valued status symbol of its day, it now faced the possibility of being sentenced to the woodpile.

Constructed in the 1870's, it was among the prized garden buildings on the luxurious Henry Astor estate in West Copake. Larger than most summer houses or gazebos of the time, it was utilized on a more grandiose scale than others of its genre, which were used mostly as places for quiet thinking, reading, or romance.

Constructed in the 1870s, it was among the prized garden buildings on the luxurious Henry Astor estate in West Copake.

Known far and wide as the Astor Pavilion, it was often the scene of luncheons and dinner parties. Victorian belles in elegant dresses clapped politely at the entertainment provided within . . . and their youthful swains lounged on the grass as bands and orchestras played.

But that had been long ago — and now the building was a museum piece . . . one that stood in the way of automotive progress. Museum pieces, however, are the stock in trade of John-Peter Hayden, junior and Donald Richard Chapin, who have put to work at their Ancram Restoration the concept that a fully restored building is a building which functions as close to the way it originally functioned as possible. The Astor Pavilion, now moved to Ancram and residing in the gardens which surround Vaux-hall, the restored 1843 Greek-Gothic Villa there, is being returned to its Victorian splendor.

Hayden and Chapin had planned to construct their own gasebo on the site; were saved that necessity after being offered the Astor Pavilion, still in remarkably good condition for its years, and needing only some repair.

As a living historic monument of our Victorian heritage for all to enjoy, the pavilion will again be used for entertainment. Hayden and Chapin promise, among other enticements, an all-girl string orchestra in white dresses playing Strauss Waltzes in their pavilion on warm summer nights. With music once again echoing from the small structure, those of us who are looking with a new interest at our past will find in the once tottering little summerhouse a small slice of the history of the 1870's. That time when the gardens and lawns of the Astor estate burgeoned with guests on Sundays and holidays. When grist mills plied their trade, farmers hoed their corn by hand, grandfather's clocks ticked off the hours, Currier and Ives prints decorated walls, and Victorian armchairs graced every home.

As a living historic monument of our Victorian heritage for all to enjoy, the pavilion will again be used for entertainment.

The old summerhouse has been brought back and put to use in the work of the present at the Ancram Restoration, along with Ancram's Victorian Inn, Greek-Gothic Villa, Opera House, Simons General Store, and Operetta Museum. Those interested in visiting the village where the clock has been turned back to the days of Queen Victoria and Lillian Russell will find it by taking the Taconic Parkway North from the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge to the Jackson Corners exit, turning right (East) and following the signs seven miles to Ancram.

Bicentennial Mixed Choir Being Formed

Mendelssohn Glee Club has announced plans to organize a mixed choir for a special Bicentennial Concert to be held April 10, 1976.

The major work to be performed is a 30-minute cantata for narrator and mixed chorus entitled "A Cry For Freedom." The cantata is based on the music of William Billings and tells the story of the entire Revolutionary War.

Billing's music is scored for a dominent bass section and for an equal balance between men's and women's voices. The Club plans to augment its 50-plus membership with several guest singers to achieve a total of 75 male voices. An equal number of ladies from the Kingston area will be enlisted to bring the total up to a 150-voice choir.

Rehearsals for the April concert will begin in mid-January of next year. Registration for the Bicentennial Choir will begin in mid-October and details will be announced at that time.

Rehersals for the Glee Club's regular fall program will start Monday, Sept. 8 and continue on a weekly basis until the first concert on December 1. A sample of music for the fall repertoire includes "The Heavens are Telling" by Haydn; "Little Bitty Baby," a spiritual; selections from South Pacific, Cabaret and Music Man; and "The Twelve Days After Christmas," a musical spoof. The Glee Club will perform also two selections arranged for male chorus and alto soloist.

The Mendelssohn Club has been a part of the Kingston scene since the turn of the century. It is not, as the name might imply, oriented to "long-hair" music, but strives for a variety of traditional, classical and contemporary songs and old-fashioned harmonizing.

The Club invites any good male singer to get involved. Bill Lanier of Kingston may be contacted for membership details, or interested persons may attend weekly rehearsals which take place Mondays from 8 to 10 p.m. at St. John's Episcopal Church.

Crowell-DeForest Marriage Reported

Cynthia Ann Crowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Crowell of West Palm Beach, Florida, exchanged nuptial vows with Alan F. DeForest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow F. DeForest of Kingston.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony at the First Congregational Church in Sharon, Mass., was the Rev. Richard Leidberg.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose an ivory satin mist gown with Venise lace trim.

Mrs. Thomas Schmenk of Cleveland, Ohio, was matron of honor for her sister. Miss Terry Scofield of Wakefield, Mass., and Miss Carol Snyder of Sharon, Mass., were bridesmaids. Jonathan Schmenk, nephew of the bride, and Gretchen Schmenk, niece of the bride, served as ringbearer and flowergirl, respectively.

William Miller of Iselin, N.J. was best man. Barry DeForest and Craig DeForest of Kingston, brothers of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

A reception was given in the church parish hall.

The bride, an alumna of Sharon High School, graduated from Vermont College with an Associate Bachelor of Science in Medical Secretarial Practice. The bridegroom is a graduate of Kingston High School and received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration from Norwich University. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson of 100 North Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, announce the marriage of their daughter, Linda Maureen, to Anthony Joseph Ruiz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Joseph Ruiz Sr. of Libertyville Road, New Paltz.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of imported satin-faced organza fashioned with a high, sheer yoked neckline on a modified and fitted Empire bodice. The floor-length organza skirt was styled in a demi-bell silhouette. Floral patterned Nottingham lace created a bodice bib effect. The front bodice and sleeves were accented with miniature seed pearls. The gown featured an attached cathedral train bordered with a deep flounce of matching lace.

Miss Catherine Sessa of Brooklyn was maid of honor. Attendants were Miss Maryann Cimino, Miss Victoria Cimino, Mrs. Linda Foertsch, all of New Paltz; Miss JoAnne Kerbert of Saugerties. Lisa and Kim Reinertsen of New Paltz served as flower girls.

Patrick Ruiz of New Paltz was best man. Ushers were James Novarro, Poughkeepsie; Kenneth Thompson, Stephen Foertsch, Robert Krauss, all of New Paltz. James Dodd Jr. of New Paltz was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Meadowbrook Lodge, Vailsgate.

The bride was graduated in 1973 from New Paltz High School and from Krissler Business Institute in Poughkeepsie, class of 1974. She is employed as a secretary by St. Cabrini Home.

Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of New Paltz High School, was graduated from State University College at Delhi, and is employed as a carpenter by Morse and Sons in Clintondale.

After a wedding trip to Miami and Orlando, Fla., the couple will reside at 230 Route 32 North, New Paltz.

YWCA Open House

Fall is near, a time for meeting new friends, exploring new skills.

On Tuesday, Sept. 9, the Ulster County YWCA will hold open house at 209 Clinton Avenue in Kingston. Instructors for fall classes will be on hand from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and again in the evening from 7 to 8:30 to chat about their programs. Class displays of handmade articles will be on view. Members of the YWCA staff, clubs, committees and special groups will share their plans for the coming season.

Fall courses, all beginning in September, include expectant parents class, folk guitar, sewing, tennis, watercolor, needlecraft, yoga, sculpture, duplicate bridge, modern dance, weaving, photography, art workshop, quilting, piano for children, and sketch. The YWCA, an inflation-fighter, retains its usual modest fee schedule.

Group encounters for mothers of young children, a teen mothers club, consciousness-raising sessions, the well-known "Y-Forum" programs, and a new noontime, "Listen and Lunch" series of presentations for girls on the go, suggest only a few of the YWCA activities available.

Special hours and programs for teens and pre-teens will be announced shortly.

Babysitting service will be available during the morning hours. There is no charge for this service while attending open house.

Additional information is available at the Y office. The YWCA is a United Way Agency.

A delicious Indian-inspired dish that's perfect for the Rosh Hashana table.

Passage to India for Rosh Hashana

Jewish cuisine is truly international in origin and new dishes are joined readily with ancient traditions. In Cochin, India, a relatively new Jewish community has been established and the foods of that area have been incorporated into Jewish cuisine. These Jews of Cochin have absorbed the culture and skin coloring of their Hindu neighbors but they never gave up their Jewish heritage. Their diet, mainly rice and curries, is typical of India but the kashrut laws are maintained strictly.

Traditionally curries are served for Rosh Hashana by the Jews of Cochin, India. They are accompanied by rice and small dishes of almonds, flaked coconut, raisins and other condiments. The Fruited Lamb Curry pictured here is a delicious Indian-inspired dish which is perfect for the Rosh Hashana table. The recipe uses Planters Peanut Oil, a favorite among Jewish cooks because it is kosher.

Rosh Hashana will be celebrated by Jews across the world on September 6.

For an unusual Rosh Hashana dessert serve Indian Jalabees along with Fruited Lamb Curry. These pretzel-shaped sweets are made by squeezing loops and squiggles of batter into hot peanut oil, deep frying until golden then dipping in a bowl of sugar syrup. Jalebis are one of India's favorite snack foods and are sold by street vendors all year long. They make an elegant dessert when served either alone or as an accompaniment to fresh fruit after your Rosh Hashana dinner to symbolize the hope for sweetness in the new year.

Fruited Lamb Curry

1 pound lamb cubes for stew
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons peanut oil
1 medium onion, sliced
½ cup orange juice
1 medium tart apple, diced
1 tablespoon curry powder
Hot cooked rice

Coat lamb with flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Measure peanut oil into a skillet; add lamb cubes and brown them. Add onion slices and cook until tender. Add orange juice, diced apple and curry powder. Cover; simmer, stirring occasionally, until the lamb is tender, about 1 hour. If mixture becomes too dry, add a little water. Serve with rice. Makes 3 servings.

Indian Jalebis

1 cup milk
2 teaspoons sugar
¾ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon powdered saffron
½ cup warm water (105°F.-115°F.)
1 package Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
1¾ to
2¼ cups unsifted flour
3 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ cups cold water
Peanut oil

Scald milk, stir in 2 teaspoons sugar, salt and saffron. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in active dry yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Stir in enough flour to make a very thick batter; beat until smooth. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

About 15 minutes before batter has completed rising, prepare syrup. Combine remaining 3 cups sugar, cream of tartar and cold water in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Increase heat to high and bring to a boil. Boil briskly, undisturbed for 10 minutes or until syrup reaches 230°F. Pour into large bowl.

more than 3 inches above oil, squeeze into deep hot (375°F.) peanut oil, looping it back and forth 4 or 5 times to form a pretzel shape. Each pretzel should be about 3-inches long and 2-inches wide. Fry until golden brown on both sides, about 1 minute. Life out with slotted spoon and place in syrup for a minute, turning once. Place on plate in a single layer.

Serve warm or at room temperature. Makes about 4 dozen.

★Or use a pastry bag with a ⅛ to 1/16-inch decorating tip. Stir down batter. Force through a funnel into a well rinsed plastic squeeze bottle with a ⅛ to 1/16-inch opening.★ Keeping batter not

Up With Equal Rights!

Give Groom a Shower

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This might sound crazy, but how come people don't give showers for men who are getting married? Brides get linen showers, kitchen showers, lingerie showers, and all kinds of showers. But grooms never get anything.

Women are now screaming for equal rights, so how about giving men equal rights? A man who's about to be married could use some new pajamas, shirts, underwear, and even spark plugs and fan belts.

Well, Abby, what do you say?

FOR EQUAL RIGHTS

DEAR FOR: I'm all for it. But where have you been? Not long ago I published a letter from a man whose wife left him and took everything; so his pals at work gave him a shower to help set him up in housekeeping. Bravo!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 39-year-old woman who is engaged to a wonderful man, age 40. He has three fine children and has been a widower for two years. He is very clean cut, considerate, and I think I'm the luckiest woman in the world.

Now, my problem: He frequently says, "my wife," when referring to his deceased wife. I think he should call her his late wife. Also, he is very close to his late wife's parents and he refers to them as his "in-laws." Are they not his "former in-laws"?

Am I being small-minded, jealous and unreasonable to feel as I do, or am I justified? I want to be fair. I certainly don't want to damage our relationship, but this one habit of his is driving me up a wall.

Is this worth mentioning?

NEEDS SOME WISDOM

DEAR NEEDS: Anything that drives you up a wall is well worth mentioning. But first you must realize that his former in-laws will always be a part of his family because they are his children's grandparents; so don't demand that he refer to them as "my former in-laws." But do tell him that he'd better start referring to his late wife as just that because you will be his wife soon.

Candidate Wants Unemployment Task Force

TOWN OF ULSTER

Janet C. Yallum, Democratic candidate for the county legislature in District-5, has called for "a legislative task force to deal with the unemployment crisis in Ulster County."

She pointed out that in the week of Aug. 15, people registering for unemployment benefits under all programs available totaled 5,385 and noted that many others ineligible for benefits are also jobless. The last official rate of unemployment has been quoted at 11.6 percent; Mrs. Yallum suggests that the current figure may be closer to 12 percent.

The candidate, who seeks to represent the Towns of Ulster, Hurley and Olive, noted "that unemployment will get worse once seasonal and tourist-oriented jobs end on Labor Day. Building construction and highway jobs will also slow down later in the year."

Mrs. Yallum suggested that Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago call together a task force, including county and state legislators; representatives of the New York State Department of Labor; spokesmen for the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce; and representatives of the county's Department of Social Services.

"A sharing of problems and ideas can result in a mutual effort that in itself would be a mighty attack on unemployment," Mrs. Yallum said. She pointed out that since President Ford vetoed some "pump-primer" legislation that would have created jobs, it is up to the local areas to initiate their own programs. In some cases, jobs might be sought under existing state and federal programs.

"This should be done now," Mrs. Yallum urged, "before 'the winter of our discontent' settles in. Many of our neighbors are now caught between inflationary costs, high property taxes, soaring utility rates, even increases in telephone bills; they may not be able to hold out through the winter. And as unemployment benefits run out, our already mammoth bill for Social Services will swell even more and inflict a larger burden on all Ulster County residents."

Mrs. Yallum concluded, "This I do believe: that one of the purposes of government must be to cut through problems, to cut through pain, and to do it as fast as possible."

Dem Hopeful Scores Reaction

SAUGERTIES

"Surprised that Harry Hoffman, chairman of the Saugerties Environmental Commission, would not lend his support to anyone who was advocating the investigation of alternate sources of energy," David Menzies, Democratic candidate for Ulster County Legislature, said today he thinks the subject too important to become mired in political controversy."

Menzies, who is running in the new Dist. 3 (Saugerties), said "the Republican reaction to the proposal made by Paul Miller, Democratic candidate, was typical of their reaction to all new ideas whether on the town or county level. They shun ideas as if they were the plague," he said.

Miller recently suggested that a study be made of the possible use of the Cantine mill site for generating electric power.

Menzies was also critical of the utilities, who, he said, were more interested in finding new ways to increase their profits rather than in cutting utility costs by finding ways to conserve energy. "They are not really part of the free enterprise system but really are monopolies protected by legislation which virtually guarantees them a certain rate of return no matter how inefficient their operation. We must look into their activities more rigorously than we have in the past," he advised.

A strong advocate of finding new ways to develop economical supplemental energy sources, Menzies is particularly interested in the possibility of using sewage facilities and landfill areas for generating fuel.

"This is no longer a visionary idea for much practical work has been done in this direction," Menzies explained. "With the right kind of leadership, Ulster County could have been in the vanguard with those communities that are husbanding their limited resources. Already, St. Louis, Nashville, Chicago, Pontiac, Akron and Saugus are involved in the direct burning of the organic fraction of solid wastes, including plastics and rubber, to produce steam for electric power. And, other communities are developing methane gas from sewage," he said.

Menzies concluded that "we had better face up to the fact that the energy shortage is going to be with us for a long time. We had better work together, thoroughly investigating every possible solution. This is no time for irresponsible mud slinging."

JAMES B. IRWIN

Astronaut To Visit Here

KINGSTON

The City of Kingston will host the New York State visit of former astronaut, Col. James B. Irwin in his High Flight Foundation's Bicentennial tour.

Founded in 1972 by Col. Irwin, High Flight is an Interdenominational Christian Foundation, based in Colorado. As part of the nation's 200th birthday celebration Col. Irwin and High Flight personnel are visiting each state. Kingston was selected for the New York site through Irwin's previous association with Robert Stubbs, Ulster County YMCA executive director.

Plans for the week of New York State Religious Heritage Bicentennial celebration are nearing completion after several months of ecumenical meetings. Events will be held Tuesday, Sept. 9 through Sunday, Sept. 14 with highlights being the appearance of Col. Irwin at the Religious Heritage Rally Sept. 12 at the Kate Walton Fieldhouse and at a Saturday youth rally at St. Joseph's School gymnasium.

Conducting the week-long celebration will be Dr. William Rittenhouse, nationally known clergyman and co-founder of High Flight. He, with Col. Irwin, will meet with church leaders for a luncheon session Saturday, Sept. 13 at the Holiday Inn.

Dr. Rittenhouse will be guest speaker at Kingston services clubs — Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis — Sept. 9, 10 and 11. Kick-off for the celebration will be a Christian Community Evening with Dr. Rittenhouse 8 p.m., Sept. 10 at Fair Street Reformed Church. A film, Barbed Wire Preacher depicting his experiences during World War II as a pilot and prisoner of war, will be shown. A reception will follow the program.

A High Flight Film, Apollo XV in the Mountains of the Moon will be shown at the Saturday morning youth rally and will be narrated by Col. Irwin.

An ecumenical worship service Sunday, Sept. 14, starting 2:30 p.m. a the Kate Walton Fieldhouse will conclude the celebration.

In addition to the scheduled programs a Space museum will be open to the public at Kingston Plaza during the week. Hours will be Monday through Friday organized groups 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.; general public will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 4 to 8 p.m. Security for the valuable collection is being provided by Ulster County Sheriff Thomas Mayone and Kingston Deputy Chief William Slover.

Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago has designated Sept. 8 through 13 as Religious Heritage Bicentennial Week. He noted that it is fitting and proper that Ulster County and the City of Kingston host the Religious Heritage Bicentennial in view of the fact that the city was the first capital of the state, the first state constitution was written and adopted here and the first governor, George Clinton, inaugurated here.

The program is being financed through contributions from participating churches and interested individuals.

Murtaugh Remains Eternal Optimist

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh is the eternal optimist and at the moment the Pirates' future appears bright.

Rennie Stennett's homer capped a three-run fourth inning Tuesday night that snapped a 4-4 tie and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an 8-4 victory over the New York Mets,

The triumph increased Pittsburgh's lead in the National League East to four games over second plac St. Louis and five games over third place New York and Philadelphia. The Phillies and Cards both lost Tuesday.

"We have no objectives," Murtaugh said in a jubilant Pirates' dressing room. "We try to win every game we play. If we don't win today we'll try and win tomorrow."

Willie Stargell, the Pirates' power-hitting first baseman, thought the win over the Mets was an important one, especially since Tom Seaver had blanked the Pirates on four hits the previous night.

"It was a big win because we gained on everyone," Stargell said. "Last night was a tough loss but you can't die with it. You've got to come back out the next day. We have pride and we play with pride. We didn't come into New York saying we had to win one, two or three games. When we leave here we'll still have to go out and bust our butt to win wherever we go from here." With one out in the fourth and the score tied, Richie Hebner singled and scored on Frank Taveras' triple to give the Pirates a 5-4 lead. When right fielder Mike Vail allowed the ball to get past him, Taveras also scored, and one out later, Stennett unloaded his seventh homer.

The Pirates added their last run in the fifth on a double by Al Oliver, a wild pitch, a walk to Stargell and an infield out.

Pittsburgh went ahead in the second on Bill Robinson's fifth homer of the year but a two-run homer by Joe Torre gave the Mets a 2-1 lead in their half of the inning.

The Pirates scored three runs in the third off loser Jerry Koosman on Taveras' single, Ken Brett's sacrifice bunt, Stennett's single and Manny Sanguillen's eighth homer. The Mets tied the score again at 4-4 with two runs in the third on a triple by Vail and Dave Kingman's 29th homer.

Dave Giusti pitched hitless ball over the last three innings to gain his 16th save.

In other NL games, Cincinnati walloped San Diego 10-4, San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 7-3 and Atlanta topped Houston 4-1.

Cubs 5, Cardinals 3

A pair of errors by second baseman Larry Lintz plus an error and a balk by St. Louis pitcher Lynn McGlothen enabled Chicago to score twice in the seventh inning and snap a 1-1 tie. Manny Trillo singled home two more runs in the eighth for the necessary insurance runs. Andy Thornton chipped in with his third homer in two games for the Cubs.

Expos 4, Phillies 3

Jim Dwyer's two-run double in the fourth ipning and a runscoring double by Barry Foote in the ninth enabled Montreal to hand Philadelphia its fourth straight loss. The loss was the Phils' ninth in their last 12 games and dropped them five games off the pace in the NL East.

Reds 10, Padres 4

Tony Perez became Cincinnati's all-time runs batted in leader when he singled home Cesar Geronimo during a seven-run fifth inning that carried the Reds over San Diego. Perez, who has driven in 95 runs this season, has 1,010 for his 11-year career which betters the previous mark of 1,009 set by Frank Robinson.

Giants 7, Dodgers 3

Von Joshua, Willie Montanez and rookie Johnnie Lemaster homered in support of Ed Halicki to lead San Francisco over Los Angeles. Lemaster's homer was an inside-the-park shot and came in his first big league at bat. Halicki allowed eight hits and struck out 12 in raising his record to 9-11. Don Sutton, who pitched only five innings, was tagged with his 12th loss in 28 decisions.

Braves 4, Astros 1

Reliever Bruce Dal Canton retired the heart of the Houston batting order with the bases loaded and none out in the eighth inning to preserve Atlanta's triumph over the Astros. Dal Canton, recording his first save of the season, retired Cesar Cedeno, Cliff Johnson and Bob Watson in succession to preserve Carl Morton's 16th victory.

For Fisk: Two Awards

By BILL MADDEN
UPI Sports Writer

Carlton Fisk might yet become the first player in baseball history to win a most valuable player award and a purple heart in the same season.

Fisk, whose seemingly endless string of injuries have caused him to miss nearly an entire season of games over the past two years, was back in the Boston Red Sox' lineup Tuesday night after a nine-game absence due to a split finger. The result: 2-for-4 and three RBIs in a 7-4 victory for the Red Sox over the New York Yankees.

"Fisk is the 'glue-man,'" Oakland A's slugger Reggie Jackson said only last weekend while the slugging Boston catcher was still on the sidelines. "He's the guy who keeps the Red Sox together."

Offhand, the facts would tend to back up Jackson's opinion— even with the year much-touted rookies Fred Lynn and Jim Rice are having. In his abbreviated 57 games this year, Fisk has driven in 37 runs, scored 28 and is batting .313 with seven homers.

"My hand felt good last Wednesday and I was hoping to get back into the lineup, but then I pulled some tendons in my fingers after picking weeds in my garden," said Fisk, who drove home two runs with a bases-loaded single in the fourth and singled home Lynn, who had doubled, in the fifth.

"I couldn't get a good grip on the bat tonight but come to think of it, I might keep this grip awhile."

The victory, which went to Reggie Cleveland (10-9), increased the Red Sox' lead to six games over Baltimore in the AL East.

Orioles 3-1, Indians 2-2

Designated hitter Rico Carty's eighth inning homer in the nightcap, his 16th, earned Cleveland a split after Bobby Grich won the opener for Baltimore with a 10th inning bases-loaded single. Carty's homer, which snapped a 1-1 tie and gave Jim Bibby only his fifth win in 19 decisions, stalled the Orioles' hopes of overtaking Boston. Mike Cuellar (14-10) scattered 11 hits but went the route to gain the victory.

Angels 4, A's 1

Frank Tanana (14-6) struck out 14 Oakland batters to run his league-leading season's total to 220 in California's win ove the A's. Tanana, who scattered five hits, was the beneficiary of four runs in the eighth inning, Mickey Rivers doubling home two of them. The Angels also stole two more bases to become the first team since the 1918 Pittsburgh Pirates with 200 thefts in a season.

White Sox 4, Royals 1

George Brett's two-out run scoring single—his fourth hit — started a three run 12th inning rally for Kansas City and helped deprive Jim Kaat of his 20th victory. Kaat (19-11) went all the way for Chicago but ran into trouble in the 12th when Amos Otis doubled, Brett singled, John Mayberry walked, Harmon Killebrew reach on an error and Al Cowens singled home two more runs. Al Fitzmorris (14-10) went 11 innings for the win.

Twins 5, Rangers 3

Minnesota rookie Jim Hughes spaced three hits over 8 2-3 innings to gain his 13th victory and was backed by homers from Dan Ford, Rod Carew and John Briggs. Carew's and Briggs' back-to-back homers, which followed a leadoff walk to Jerry Terrell, wiped out a 3-1 Texas lead in the fourth.

Brewers 6, Tigers 5

George Scott slammed five hits—including a pair of doubles—and scored twice as Milwaukee beat Detroit. Hank Aaron's sacrifice fly capped a three-run Brewer rally in the fifth while Scott doubled home one run and scored another during a two-run fourth.

A New Nastase Ousts Ramirez

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — "I couldn't scream, I couldn't say bad things, all I could do was to try to behave myself," said Ilie Nastase.

The 29-year-old Romanian firebrand had just come off the court after winning a 3 hour, 20 minute war with Mexico's Raul Ramirez, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, 6-7, 6-3, Tuesday to gain the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open tennis championships.

Nastase struggled to control his temper because while the match was in progress a select committee in New York was considering what punishment, if any, Nastase should receive if found guilty of not trying to win in the Canadian Open three weeks ago.

"I had to concentrate twice as hard while I was out there," Nastase continued. "I had to concentrate on beating Raul, I had to concentrate on behaving myself."

And behave himself he did. On only one occasion, when his fury flared at a close line call against him, did he take a ball and slam it into the stadium crowd. The reaction was instantaneous, for people have come to expect this of Ilie. That was the only gesture, and when a needling reporter asked if his otherwise model deportment represented a change in his personality, the Romanian bridled.

"You mean you want to see "the real Nastase'? Why then do you write bad things about me when I am, as you call me "the real Nastase'?"

Of the match itself, Nastase said he believed he had started too fast, running too much, particularly in the second set loss to Ramirez, but as the match progressed, Ilie said, "He was lucky in the fourth—I was lucky in the fifth."

Chris Evert Gets Fifth Chance Today

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Today is the day, for the fifth straight year, that Chris Evert is programmed to reach the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

She has failed there four consecutive times, but this year, with the switch from grass to clay, the officials have all but engraved her name on the trophy, confident that Chris will add Forest Hills to her list of laurels.

At age 16, she made her debut here on center court against a nice German girl, Edda Buding. Chris won, and went on from there to play all her matches in the stadium as the Cinderella child, until the wicked witch of the west, Billie Jean King, ended the dream in the semis.

In 1972, it was a waltz to the semis for Chris, where Kerry Melville beat her. Kerry, now Mrs. Raz Reid, is Miss Evert's challenger today. In 1973, Chris lost her semi to Margaret Court, the eventual champion, and a year ago it was Evonne Gollagong who cut her down in a tense, rain-interrupted semifinal.

Mrs. Court plays tonight against a new teen-age wonder, Martina Navratilova, while in day matches, Evonne opposes Kazuku Sawamatsu of Japan, second seed Virginia Wade, who won the first Open when Chris was 14-year-old, goes against German girl Katja Ebbinghaus.

Among the young women, there is almost resignation concerning their chance of stopping Miss Evert, either in the quarters today, or in the semis, or in the final.

Chris is riding the crest of 81 straight victories on clay courts, her last loss on a surface similar to the one used here coming in Cincinnati, 6-2, 7-5 to Mrs. Goolagong-Cawley.

Evonne is in the other half of the draw, so that the girls conceivably could meet each other in Saturday's final.

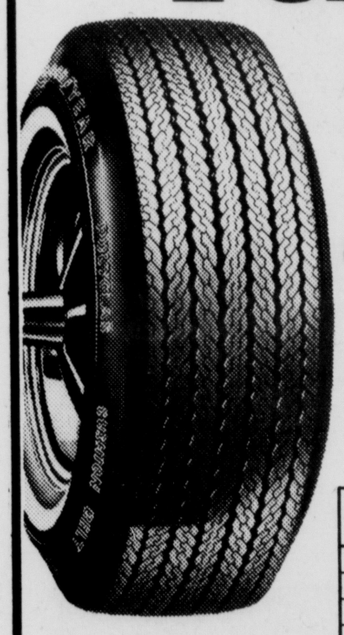

The men completed their advance to the quarterfinals Tuesday, with Romania's Ilie Nastase winning a five-setter from Mexico's Raul Ramirez, Chile's Jaime Fillol trouncing Germany's Karl Meiler, Spain's Manuel Orantes topping Francois Jauffert of France, and Guillermo Vilas toying with two-time runnerup Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia in a quick 90 minute, three-setter at night. Kodes won a mere 45 points in his 6-2, 6-0, 6-0 loss.

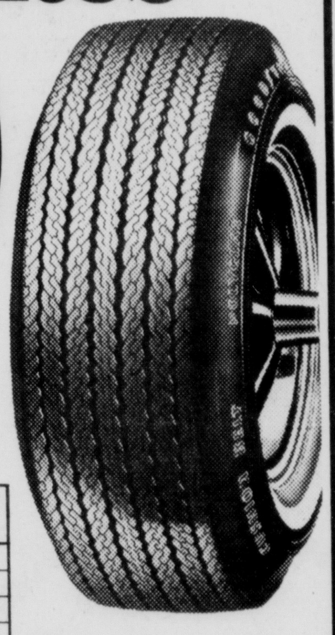

The men return to action Thursday, with defender Jimmy Connors against Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison and the other surviving American, Eddie Dibbs, opposing Bjorn Borg, the 19-year-old Swede who is favored by many to take Connors' title.

Tuesday's action had been devoted to the lower half of the men's draw, with not a single American or Australian involved, a most strange development in international tennis. Few could remember a Forest Hills totally devoid of Australians at this point, and only two Ameicans still in contention.

Day attendance for the first time took a severe dip from the 15,000 range to 10,662, while the next-to-last night program attracted 7,971—many of them drawn by the chance of seeing Billie Jean King pair with Rosie Casals against in a women's double match.

WFL Unloads Chicago Winds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Moving boldly with a strong hand —but one predicated on fear— the World Football League continues to seek credibility as a thriving major league although divorcing itself from two of the country's strongest markets.

With the sharp and decisive blow of an executioner, the WFL Tuesday announced the immediate extinction of the Chicago Winds because of internal problems and the dispersal of their players to the 10 other league members.

Following the debacle of 1974 when the "old" WFL ran up debts estimated as high as $20 million and lost the key New York franchise, league President Chris Hemmeter nevertheless pointed to the swift action of the Board of Governors as a positive move that strengthened the structure of the entire circuit.

"The revocation of the Chicago membership is an example of the true strength of the Hemmeter Plan in action," the youthful president said. "The plan does not allow any team, irrespective of the size of its market or the potential of that market, to vary from the precepts agreed to by all members as outlined in the Hemmeter Plan.

"Basicaly, the league requires that all teams be in precise accordance in all aspects of the Hemmeter Plan. The Governors wll not tolerate any deviation since such deviation might bring about the types of irresponsible actions which characterized last year's league."

While admitting the memory of last year might have prompted the death blow, Hemmeter stressed that the other 10 members were healthy under the stringent fiscal safeguards of the Hemmeter Plan, which provides that exact monies be proportioned for various areas of a club's operation.

"Everybody else is current and fully paid and this assures greater financial stability for the remaining 10 clubs," he said. "The important thing for the league is to maintain a sense of credibility."

The Board of Governors voted 10-1 to expel the Winds Monday night, with the only dissenting vote being cast by Kenneth Zak, the Winds' governor. The action was provoked when two investors in the team withdrew the $175,000 they had on deposit with the league's legal counsel.

When the remaining Chicago investors were asked to replace the money, they either weren't able to or didn't wish to. This prompted the WFL to act quickly.

"Our men aren't promoters and they won't stand for that act," Hemmeter explained. "Otherwise we're exposing ourselves to the same kind of nonsense as last year."

In the dispersal draft, the Philadelphia Bell came away with nine Chicago players, including wide receiver John Gilliam and Pete Beathard. Only two other players on the Wins had no-cut clauses in their contracts, defensive end Larry Jameson and running back Mark Kellar, and both went to San Antonio.

Winds' General Manager Leo Cahill was given a position as an assistant to Hemmeter and a job also is being sought for Coach Abe Gibron.

According to Hemmeter, about $125,000 was deposited in a bank Tuesday morning, and from these funds the WFL will make good to Winds' season ticket holders and creditors.

The Winds played only one regular season game at home, drawing less than 5,000 fans.

Dolphins Lose Game and Players

BY JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The Miami Dolphins might have lost more than an exhibition game Monday night. It might just cost them a shot at a division title.

The Minnesota Vikings trampled Miami 20-7 in a game that wasn't as close as the final score indicated. But even worse than the Dolphins' first preseason loss after three straight victories was the injury report issued Tuesday.

Dick Anderson, one of the best strongside safeties in the National Football League, reinjured his left knee in the loss to the Vikings. The knee, hurt in the Pro Bowl game in January, was X-rayed Tuesday, with further tests due today. Anderson could require surgery and miss the season.

Nick Buoniconti, the veteran middle linebacker who is the hub of the Dolphins' defense, suffered a broken right thumb and will be lost for an indefinite period.

The possible loss of Anderson for the season less and Buonionti for an extended period, along with the defection of Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick to the World Football League and nagging injuries to All-Star defensive end Bill Stanfill and safety Jake Scott could mean the end of Miami's long reign as American Conference Eastern Division champions.

The Dolphins had to put on a late surge to overtake Buffalo and win the title last season and both the Bills and the New York Jets are considered improved this year and rank as contenders, along with the New England Patriots.

Tuesday was cutdown day again, with clubs reducing their rosters to 49 on the way down to a regular season limit of 43.

Atlanta placed star defensive end Claude Humphrey and tight end Larry Mialik on injured reserved and waived four players, including veteran back Molly McGee, and Buffalo claimed defensive end Fred Cooper on waivers from Detroit and dropped three rookies.

Cincinnati placed veteran defensive end Royce Berry on injured reserve and obained defensive lineman Bob Brown from San Diego and Denver waived defensive tackle Bob Kampa, linebacker Henry Reed and guard Chuck Walton, all veterans.

Detroit waived veteran quarterback Sam Wyche and linebacker Bill Laskey and voided a trade that would have brought cornerback Bernard Jackson and linebacker Tin Keaney from Cincinnati when Jackson failed his physical.

Green Bay obtained linebacker Ken Bernich on waivers from San Diego and Los Angeles acquired punter Jim McCann from Kansas City and dropped quarterback Don Milan and punter Mike Burke.

The Jets waived veteran center Warren Koegel and linebacker Gary Baccus and the Giants dropped tight end Elmore Stephens, a No. 2 draft choice of Kansas City in January. San Francisco cut veteran receiver Mike Bettiga.

In other news, the Atlanta Falcons said that Steve Bartkowski, the No. 1 pick in the college draft, will start at quarterback against Buffalo in Tampa, Fla., Saturday night.

Parilli Sues Winds

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Winds' former coach filed a $540,000 damage suit against the now-defunct team on the same day the World Football League put the club out of business.

Coach Babe Parilli charged Tuesday he had signed a two-year contract to coach the Winds and had verbal assurance he was "hired for life." He said no WFL coach was to "be discharged for two years."

He charged that despite his contract and the assurances, the Winds negotiated with Abe Gibron to replace him as coach and that he learned by reading a newspaper July 28 that he had been fired and Gibron hired.

Parilli named Winds President Eugene Pullano, the team, the WFL and league President Chris Hemmeter as defendants. He said he was to have been paid $65,000 for the first year of his contract and $75,000 for the second.

His suit declared he would have received $400,000 from other promotions during the two years and asked the court to declare his contract binding, either placing the money in escrow of directing its payment to him in monthly installments.

3-Way Tie Pinehurst; Sharpe's Flag Leader

WOODSTOCK

Three teams tied with net 62s in the Woodstock Country Club's mixed Pinehurst tournament.

Pat Ito and Harold Dungey carded 95-33-62; Donna McIntyre and Francis Stern-Montagnye had 90-28-62; and and Pat McFadden and Bill McCabe fashioned 82-20-62.

Pat Sullivan and Ken Charlton combined for the low gross of the day with 39-40-79 and tied at 66 with Marge Gormley and Bert Dean. Sullivan and Charlton had 79-13-66, with the Gormley-Dean team posting 85-19-66.

The Labor Day Flag Tournament was strictly a Sharpe Family Day. Alex Sharpe, Jr. paced the men's division by advancing to within 11 feet of the 19th cup with his allotment of 9 handicap strokes.

Peg Sharpe paced the women, as she finished 6 inches from the cup on the 17th green with 22 storokes handicap. Ida Morey, also 22 handicap, was 14 feet from the cup on the 17th green for second place.

Joe Modica used his 5 handicap strokes judiciously to place second in the men's division, 14 feet from the 19th cup.

Anthony G. Pizzarelli, 13 handicap, placed third, 16 feet from the 19th cup and Dick Petro, 13 handicap, advanced to the back edge of the 19th green.

Booster Blasts Sooners

OKLAHOMA CITRY (UPI) — A football fan who gave $1,000 to Oklahoma University complained Tuesday he has been booted out of the 40-yard line seats he held for 28 years and assigned new space on the goal line.

G.M. Fuller, Oklahoma City attorney and former legislator, wrote Dr. Paul Sharp, OU president, to protest what Fuller described as "the football seat rip-off."

Sharp was unavailable for comment.

"As a lifetime member of the Alumni Association, a member of the Touchdown Club, a $1,000 contributor to the OU Law Center, and one who would expect to contribute to the endowment fund of the school, and one who has devoted some time to public affairs with emphasis on higher education, I can only say, you lost a friend," Fuller wrote Sharp.

"Your program is unfair, mercenary, and quite narrow in relation to all the support required for such an institution."

"There is no way the university can justify a program that expropriates the football seats I purchased for 28 years on the 40-yard line and puts me on the goal line in the last row of the upper deck," Fuller said.

"I understand and accept the plan of selling additional seats for the cost of constructing additional seats, but obviously the purchasers have been given priority on other seats to the exclusion of longtime supporters."

"Misrepresentations were made that existing seatholders would be relocated to approximately the same location in the deck," Fuller said. "Of course, this was not done."

Fuller sent copies of his letter to Gov. David Boren; House Speaker Bill Willis, D-Tahlequah; Senate President Pro Tempore Gene Howard, DTulsa, and Dr.E.T. Dunlap, chancellor for the Regents for Higher Education.

Marcel's Barry Goldberg With Ball

Great Season For Rhinebeck Soccer Teams

KINGSTON

For Rhinebeck, the 1975 Mid Hudson Soccer Association season was a very good year. Not only did the Rotary Dolphins capture their third straight Metropolitan-Colonial Division title and retire the Charles J. Tiano Trophy, but the championships of the Yankee and National Divisions also found homes in the community.

Virginia Chemical solidified its margin in the Yankee loop with a final, 2-1 win over the SAA Iroquois Sunday to end the year with an 8-0-1 mark. The VC booters rolled to the pennant six points ahead of runnerup Kingston Travel.

The Rhinebeck Sportsmen had an even easier time of things in the National Division, posting 11 wins and one tie during the campaign to finish a whopping 23 points in front of their closest challengers. The Sportsmen blanked Marcel's, 3-0 in their finale, turning in a typical performance. Over the course of the season the small but aggressive champs booted 57 goals while allowing only three to opponents.

Life was a bit more difficult for the Dolphins who exhausted three overtime periods before nipping the Metropolitan winner, Dawkins' Insurance, 2-1 on Sunday. The championship game was 1-1 after regulation time and stayed that way after two ten minute overtimes and one five minute, sudden death extra period. The Dolphins finally emerged a winner after a match of penalty kicks.

The Dolphins, who had a final 9-0-1 record, had clinched the Colonial crown with little trouble and went into the interdivisional playoff as a favorite. The Metropolitan winner was not decided until Saturday when Dawkins' topped the Kingston Sport Club, 2-1 to claim the other playoff berth.

A pair of nearly identical goalie errors produced the only scores during the regulation time of the closely fought championship battle. Neither team mounted a serious attack during either of the first two overtimes, but in the sudden death, Dawkins' had a chance to win it only to watch a shot carom off the goal post.

The Dolphins wound up with a goal advantage of 30-5 against their ten opponents. Dawkins', which scored 24 and gave up seven, ended the season with a record of eight wins and two losses.

Co-Champions in 'C'

SAUGERTIES

Eveready Beverages and Pepperidge Farms have been declared playoff co-champions in the SAA Men's Softball League 'C' playoffs following a 11-11 tie that cannot be rescheduled because of vacation schedules, college entrances and other factors.

It was mutually agreed that the loop would have its first co-champions in its 16-year history. In regular season play, Pepperidge Farm had tied for 2nd and Eveready was fifth.

Eveready appeared to have the game in leading 11-6 when Pepperidge came to bat in the bottom of the seventh. Then, with two outs, two walks and three singles reduced the margin to three runs. A routine fly ball for seemingly the third out to left field was muffed and the fielder then threw wildly to the infield as three runs clattered across the plate to tie the score.

The sequence of events leading to the co-champions started with Friday night's heavy rains which left the regular lighted softball field unplayable for the 6:30 p.m. Saturday game. The game was moved to another diamond, unlighted and advanced to a 5:30 p.m. starting time, to avoid the darkness factor. Daylight was fast fading when the teams tied 6-6 at the end of six. Then came the heroics of the seventh inning completed in near darkness.

John France of Pepperidge Farms led the hitters with four hits. Rusty Brinnier had three hits and three RBIs for Pepperidge's.

Set Deer Management Permits

SAUGERTIES

Details of the New York State's 1975 deer management permit season have been announced by the Department of Environmental Conservation.

The Catskill Region will receive 19,850 of the 82,400 deer management permits available, with the remaining 62,550 going to the Central and Western regions.

No permits will be issued in the Adirondacks or in Sullivan and Ulster Counties, as the Department currently does not have the legislative authorization to issue permits in those areas. Quotas are up in most deer management units and permit groups are smaller. Landowner groups and regular groups range from two to four members.

Deer management permit applications, along with the 1975-76 big game licenses and big game guides, are available at license-issuing agents. As has been the case in recent years, applicants must purchase their big game license and complete the application.

These are submitted by mail, along with each applicant's deer management permit stub from his big game license, postmarked no later than Sept. 8, 1975. No money is submitted with the application. Group leaders will be notified if their group has been randomly selected for issuance of a permit. If so, they then file the $5 required in accordance with the instructions provided.

Exact boundaries of all DMU's in which there are quotas are described in the application folder. In addition, the big game guide contains a map which depicts all DMU borders. Both documents are available at license-issuing agents.

Boundaries have been changed from last year's DMU's 42, 64, 89 and 93. In addition, a new unit — DMU 58 — has been established.

Again this year, 50 percent of deer management permit quotas in each DMU are reserved for landowner applicants. To be eligible a person must own a contiguous parcel of 50 or more acres completely within the boundaries of the DMU in which he is applying for a landowner permit. Land ownership does not qualify a person for a landowner permit in any other DMU than the one in which his land is located.

If landowner quotas are exceeded in any DMU, applicants will be randomly selected by computer and those not selected will then be treated as regular applicants.

What to Do...If You Were Earl Weaver of Baltimore

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Put yourself in Earl Weaver's place for a minute. Your ball club started off poorly, horribly in fact, touching rock bottom at one point and dropping nine games back. Now it has a chance to come from behind and win the same way it did the final month of the season last year.

Question: what do you do if you're Earl Weaver?

Do you sit back quietly, try to keep from becoming hoarse again and let your Baltimore Orioles play their own game? Or do you maybe light a little more fire under them with some kind of pep talk reminding them how Boston blew a seven-game lead last year this time?

"I don't think we need any pep talk at this point," says Earl Weaver. "I also don't think it'll be a matter of Boston folding. We got 27 more games to play and we've gotta play .667 baseball. We have to win two outta every three, and if we do that, I think we've got a good chance."

The Orioles have been playing catch-up baseball since May when their hitting deteriorated into a joke and they went through their their worst stretch of the season, losing 11 out of 12. That dropped them into the cellar, but if everything goes their way now, they still can overtake Boston the way they did last September when the Red Sox lost 20 of their last 28 games.

The Red Sox have lost six of their last 11 but don't seem to be in any serious trouble.

"Just because of those three games they lost over the weekend, you can't say the Red Sox are folding," points out Weaver. "You gotta remember they haven't had a slump all season. The margin they built when we went into our slump is the one they're hanging on to now. It was nine games once. We got it cut to six now."

On the face of it, the situation between the Red Sox and Orioles now seems similar to what it was a year ago. Weaver doesn't see it that way, though.

"Last year we kind of knew around late August they couldn't keep playing the type baseball they were," he says. "This year they're more solid up and down. I'll say this: if our ball club could lose 11 out of 12, then it could happen to any club in the league. I'm not saying the Red Sox are gonna lose 11 out of 12, I'm only saying if our ball club could do it, then so could any other one."

This is what is known as hypothetical thinking, the kind which somehow becomes much more prevalent the final weeks of any season. In that same vein it may or may not be significant that Darrell Johnson doesn't worry much about his Red Sox losing 11 out of 12. At least he says he doesn't.

"I never talk about negative things," he claims. "A lot of people ask me about what happened to us the last month of last year. They ask me whose fault it was? I tell them it was nobody's fault. That's the truth. Last year we had the kind of team where we had to do it by hook or by crook, and the end result was that we got beat because we didn't hit in the last 35 ball games. We were an entirely different team, though. We didn't have (Fred) Lynn, (Jim) Rice, (Carlton) Fisk, (Denny) Doyle or (Rick) Wise. These fellows make an awful lot of difference."

Earl Weaver agrees.

"Lynn and Rice are tremendous," he says. "They're doing for them what (Rich) Coggins and (Al) Bumbry did for us in 1973, only with more power. Right now, I'd say we've got a chance because we still got four games with Boston. Our ball club isn't in bad shape now. (Don) Baylor and (Bobby) Grich are starting to come back; (Lee) May is driving in runs although he has a sore wrist; (Paul) Blair is contributing after a season long slump and Brooksie (Robinson) came through with a two-run base hit to win a ball game the other night.

"The players don't look like they need any pep talk. The only thing is that if we should happen to lose a game, I'll just remind them that's not the end. There's always tomorrow."

Lifestyle Setters Anticipate 'Happy Days' With Buying Spree

NEW YORK (UPI) — Increasingly convinced the recession is fading, New York's setters of lifestyle are anticipating financial "happy days" by redecorating their houses and apartments. They are on a buying spree.

That, in turn, is good news for Manhattan furniture stores and for furloughed furniture manufacturers and woodworkers in the southern coastal states.

The economic dog days had forced layoffs of woodcutters, cabinetmakers and assemblers of the pieces that grace homes across the country.

But a furniture retailer who makes frequent buying expeditions to North Carolina, heart of the furniture-making states, says workers there soon will be told to resharpen their saws.

"I know for a fact the recession has thrown a lot of those guys out of work," said Ray Lotta, manager of Furniture Mart in Manhattan. "But I think things will pick up as soon as the vacation season is over and people come back and look at their homes and say, 'We've got to do something with this place'."

For other shopkeepers increased sales are already a reality.

"I think the major reason for that is that our clientele, the middle and upper class, is the first to regain confidence after the worst (of the recession) is over," said Arthur Lewis, manager of the Manhattan branch of Ethan Allen Furniture, where nearly all price tags are in three or four figures.

"They're spending money for quality, and they're willing to spend more for something they know will last. It's a kind of caution, but much different from last year when they just weren't buying anything," he said.

Recent figures support the hypothesis. Lewis said his firm's sales jumped 40 per cent during August over the same month in 1974.

"As a result, we're ready to increase the size of our orders from our manufacturing plants, in the South and elsewhere."

The new consumer confidence extends to imported furniture. At Bon Marche, a modern furniture outlet in New York and Washington that imports most of its stock from Scandinavia, salesmen are seeing old customers in the showroom for the first time in months.

"We have a certain following of consumers," said Walter Wolfe, Bon Marche's buyer.

"I think more of those people are beginning again to look around their apartments and decide to do something with them. Also, more people are starting to furnish their first apartments with new pieces."

Wolfe claims most Americanmade furniture is too "gaudy" for his customers, "but once in a while I find a place down South that's thinking along the same design lines I am. I wouldn't hesitate to place an order with them now.

"At a showing of new farniture last June in High Point, N.C., the indications were Ethan Allen was the only one that would be doing new business," he said.

Lewis' branch store already is gearing up for an expected surge of home redecorators this fall. "I've put ads in the paper for new salespeople, and we're getting a lot of responses.

"I expect that will trigger new jobs at the manufacturers, too," Lewis said. "Good times seem to spread themselves out, so they touch everybody."

Meet To Fete The Old

NEW YORK (UPI) — From the speaker came the chilling sound of the creaking door of "Inner Sanctum." A campaign button proclaimed "Happy Chandler for President." And there, in the flesh (albeit 67 years old), was Tarzan himself.

For those at the "First Annual Nostalgia Convention," there's no time like the past.

While others fled to the beaches and mountains and elsewhere to escape the torments of the present, nostalgia fans collected during the Labor Day for another of those conventions dedicated to the preservation and peddling of the "good old days."

For the convention's chief creator, 16-year-old Paul Saryian of Brooklyn, and 2,000 other old-Hollywood fans, it was a chance to view old movie serials such as "Captain Marvel" and "Captain America" and some television programs of the early '50s.

And as guest of honor, they had Buster Crabbe, best remembered for his roles as "Flash Gordon,""Buck Rogers" and "Tarzan" in serials and so-called "B-features" of the 1930s and '40s.

Crabbe, now 67, answered questions, signed autographs and conceded he enjoyed keeping his name alive by appearances on college campuses and at nostalgia conventions.

Many conventioneers were drawn by tapes of old-time radio programs. Said Adam Richter of Rockaway, N.J.: "I just like the bygone era. When I was a child, old time radio was big — very, very big. And I used to enjoy listening to 'Gangbusters,''Inner Sanctum' — programs of that type — and I just get some kind of vicarious pleasure from them."

Others weren't that easily impressed. Adrian Schanler of Edison, N.J., went because her fiance wanted to go. She described nostalgia as "something past and dead, something some people unfortunately want to resurrect."

Dominating the convention was a thriving marketplace of memorabilia — everything from "Hopalong Cassidy" movie posters to "Happy Chandler for President" campaign buttons, available for purchase or trade.

Andrew Naudus of Lake Ronkonkoma, L.I., one of the busiest of the nostalgia wheeler-dealers, was forthright in his analysis of the phenomenon.

"Nostalgia is, to me, a means of supplementing my income," he said. "I buy books that I know will catch on. Then I go to these conventions and I profit by it."

Nostalgia, almost by definition, used to be known as a pleasant —and perhaps not altogether accurate — yearning for the past.

If the New York Nostalgia Convention was any indication, though, that past may no longer be so far removed.

Polish Club Invited to Pulaski Parade

Members of a coordinating committee for the White Eagle Benevolent Society on Delaware Avenue, review plans for the annual Pulaski Day Parade in New York City on Oct. 5. The White Eagle Society has been invited to particpate, for the first time, and has extended that invitation to all persons of Polish extraction in the area. General Casimir Pulaski was a Polish nobleman who gave his life in battle for America during the Revolutionary War. Reservations can be made before Sept. 8 with Francis Duffy (second from left), chairman of the parade committee. Other officers working on plans include Stanley Melnik, (L), Joseph Bujak, president of White Eagle, and Adam Klonoski. (Freeman photo)

Burn Center Drive Under Way

NEW ROCHELLE — Professional Firefighters of the Fifth District, which includes Ulster County, will hold a fund-raising dinner-dance Friday, Sept. 12 at the Beach and Tennis Club in New Rochelle.

Congressman Richard Ottinger (D-24th Dist.) and Westchester County Executive Alfred DelBello will be the main speakers.

The district, which includes Westchester, Putnam, Orange, Rockland, Sullivan, Dutchess, Ulster and Fairfield, Conn., counties wants to help establish a Burn Center in Westchester County. The Burn Center Committee is raising funds necessary to establish an adequately equipped facility for the treatment of burn victims in the eight counties. The committee feels it can be accomplished by working for favorable legislation and promotion of fund-raising events.

A task force, which included several leading doctors, has recommended that the Burn Center be developed at the Westchester County Medical Center at Grasslands which is in Valhalla. The task force cited Grasslands Reservation's central location to the region and its accessibility to ambulance and helicopter transport. It also cited the fact that the Westchester County Medical Center Hospital can draw upon resources of full-time physicians in every major clinical service, the New York Medical College and its complete medical education as well as its clinical training program and the college's biochemical and clinical research program.

The Burn Center Committee has made available $20,000 to Grasslands Hospital for special burn care equipment. It is meant to help create a burn unit which will open shortly and will hopefully graduate to a burn center.

The committee is seeking support not only from citizens but also from the state and federal government.

Recent tragedies and a grand jury investigation of the Gulliver Discotheque fire in Port Chester, indicated a dire need for burn facilities in the Westchester area, according to Henry Longo, assistant chairman of the fund-raising dinner. He said a White Plains school boy who was severely burned recently had to be transported to a burn center in Ohio because small burn centers in the area were filled up and the closest burn center which is in Boston, Mass., was also unavailable.

The Burn Center Committee will supply a speaker for any group regardless of size in the eight-county area.

11th Victim Dead In VA Murder Series

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Officials at the Veterans Administration Hospital here say another patient — the 11th in a baffling case that spurred an FBI murder hunt — has died after suffering a respiratory failure.

The hospital identified the latest victim as Robert Antil, 41, a jobless Detroit steelworker.

Dr. S. Martin Lindenauer, hospital chief of staff, said there was "grave suspicion" when Antil suddenly stopped breathing Aug. 4. Since then, he had been kept alive with a breathing apparatus.

Antil's respiratory failure was one of more than 50 cases reported between July 1 and Aug. 15 — the day the failures ended and the day the FBI entered the case.

The FBI was called in, officials said, because some administrators believe a killer injected a powerful paralyzing drug into patients. Dr. Duane Frier, the hospital's assistant chief of staff, said he believed the person responsible is a psychopath who enjoys watching patients die slowly.

The FBI said it has not ruled out that possibility.

Hospital sources said there was added mystery in Antil's case because his death occurred three days after a therapist found a "blue substance" in his breathing apparatus.

The substance was turned over to the FBI.

The cause of Antil's death was not disclosed. But the Washtenaw County medical examiner, Dr. John Atwater said, "Any death in the hospital at this point is suspicious."

Speculation about the paralyzing substance centered on Pavulon, a drug based on the South American poison curare and used in certain types of operations to relax involuntary muscles.

Despite the latest death, Lindenauer said, the hospital plans to return to its normal operation during the next month.

"The hospital can't go on like this forever," he said Tuesday. "We weighed the risk and we feel it is better to return to normal."

The hospital will maintain extra security precuations, he said, to guarantee protection for patients.

Hoffa's Foster Son Facing Grand Jury

DETROIT (UPI) — James Hoffa's self-described foster son, Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, has twice undergone questioning by FBI agents trying to determine how and why Hoffa disappeared.

Today he was facing a federal grand jury.

Federal investigators say O'Brien is a key figure in the mystery.

The 41-year old Teamsters union organizer already has admitted he was driving a car borrowed from the son of a reputed Mafia chieftain in the same area on the same day when Hoffa, former Teamsters boss, vanished July 30.

He called his presence a coincidence.

The grand jury, which federal officials say is seeking information instead of indictments, began its hearings Tuesday and heard the testimony of the brother and the son of reputed Mafia enforcer Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacolone.

The two were the first of 70 witnesses scheduled to appear before the grand jury.

Some federal authorities call the grand jury a final attempt to unravel the disappearance of Hoffa.

The leadoff witness was Joseph Giacalone, 22, son of Anthony Giacalone. It was his car that O'Brien said he was driving the day Hoffa disappeared.

Hoffa vanished without a trace from a suburban Detroit restaurant parking lot after telling his family he was meeting Anthony Giacalone for lunch. Giacalone has denied he planned to meet Hoffa that day.

The younger Giacalone spent about 33 minutes in the grand jury room and emerged 21 times to confer with his lawyer. He refused comment on what, if anything, he told jurors.

He was followed by Vito Giacalone, a brother of Anthony and also described as a Mafia figure. He spent eight minutes in the grand jury room and also refused comment.

Joseph Giacalone figured in another development in the case Tuesday.

His lawyer appeared in a federal courtroom where federal authorities sought to retain possession of the Giacalone car, which the FBI said may have been used in kidnaping Hoffa.

Extensive scientific tests, federal investigators said, indicated Hoffa was in the car at some point. One test, by specially trained dogs, traced Hoffa's scent to the back seat and trunk while another test turned up human hair samples the same color as Hoffa's.

Weather, Slow Speeds Trim Holiday Deaths

By UPI

Thunderstorms and a hurricane threat helped make this year's Labor Day holiday weekend apparently the safest in history on the nation's highways.

A United Press International count showed 390 persons died in Labor Day weekend traffic accidents — short of the National Safety Council's estimate of 460 to 560 and well behind last year's 602 death toll.

Experts say the death rate per passenger mile traveled apparently is a record low.

"We haven't calculated," NSC statistician Jack Recht said, "but it is undoubtedly the best ever for a mileage death rate for a Labor Day."

Twenty-seven persons died in holiday traffic mishaps in Texas, where 42 deaths had been expected. Jim Robinson of the Texas Department of Public Safety credited a hurricane threat with keeping the toll down.

"I think we're going to have to say uncertainty over the weather was the No. 1 factor," Robinson said. "A lot of people who would have gone to the coast did not."

He also said more drivers than normal were trying to observe the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

Michigan had 21 holiday traffic deaths — the state's lowest death toll in 15 years. Authorities said record rains kept people off the highways. They also said the 55 mile per hour speed limit and stepped-up police patrols helped reduce traffic deaths.

Forty-three persons were killed on California highways during the weekend — the lowest Labor Day holiday death toll since 1965. Fifty-six Labor Day traffic deaths were reported last year.

Bob Fahs, a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol, said motorists apparently did not travel as far as they did last year and that traffic was moving slower than in past years.

While the decline in traffic deaths was the rule nationwide, there were exceptions.

North Carolina reported 30 holiday traffic deaths, up from 26 a year ago.

"It looks like some people are determined to kill themselves or somebody else," said Lt. Arnold Record of the North Carolina Highway Patrol.

Oregon reported six holiday traffic deaths, one more than a year ago, but the state's overall traffic death toll was running well behind last year's. Officials credited stepped-up enforcement of drunken driving laws and the 55 mile per hour speed limit for the decline.

Bronfman Kidnaper Confessed

HARRISON (UPI) — New York City fireman Mel Patrick Lynch has confessed to playing the major role in the kidnaping last month of Samuel Bronfman II, according to the FBI.

Agent J. Kevin O'Brien told a hearing in Harrison Town Court Tuesday the 37-year-old Lynch related in detail how young Bronfman was kidnaped, although later refusing to sign a written confession.

Lynch said he alone abducted the 21-year-old heir to the Seagram liquor fortune near the home he shares with his mother in Purchase, according to the agent's testimony.

Lynch, said to have been wearing a ski mask and gloves, handcuffed Bronfman and led him blindfolded through woods to where Dominic Byrne, the co-defendant, was waiting in Lynch's car, the hearing was told.

The FBI said Lynch gave Byrne the telephone number of Bronfman's father, Edgar, along with a prepared ransom letter demanding $4.6 million.

The ransom was later reduced to $2.3 million, paid and recovered. Young Bronfman was rescued Aug. 17 by the police and FBI from Byrne's Brooklyn apartment.

Byrne's attorney, Peter DeBlasio, has repeatedly said his client at first did not want to go along with the plot but was later convinced that he should.

Byrne's wife, Elizabeth, and 13-year-old son, Thomas, were present during the hearing.

The hearing was conducted to determine whether the suspects should be held pending action by a county grand jury. Judge Harvey Fried ordered that they remain in custody.

A spokesman for the Westchester County district attorney's office said both Sam and Edgar Bronfman were expected to testify before the grand jury, whose deliberations begin today. Federal extortion charges filed against Lynch and Byrne have been dropped so they could be prosecuted instead under state kidnaping statutes.

Poker Game Leads To Death, Hostages

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI) — Two brothers became enraged during a poker game and took three persons hosage, barricading themselves in an apartment and setting off a siege in which one hostagewas killed and a police officer was wounded.

Wayne Locklear surrendered early today and was released with the final two hostages by his brother James who stayed in the apartment in this resort community. Police said he had three pistols.

"Quit stalling," one of the hostages yelled from a window at the small army of police who waited outside during the long seige that started Tuesday afternoon.

"Give them what they want," he pleaded. "How many people do you want dead."

The hostages and Wayne Locklear, about 20, of South Lake Tahoe, crawled out a window of the second floor apartment onto a balcony after their release. They went into the apartment next door and where whisked away by police car.

The hostages, apparently unharmed, were tentatively identified s Albie Crane and Craig Smith.

Killed in the exchange of gunfire as he tried to get out of the apartment was George Steddler, of Hayward, Calif.

Police officer Paul Habelt, 31, was shot four times when he went to the apartment to answer a call that a kidnaping was in progress. He was listed in stable condition.

Police Chief John Crow said James Locklear, about 24, had asked officers "to give him until dawn to think." He said he would honor the request.

"He's been snorting coke (cocaine) most of the day, we think," one officer said of James, who was believed armed with two .45-caliber pistols and one .38. "He's writing his will up there."

The younger Locklear was willing to give himself up earlier, police said, but his brother heldout for a deal in which Wayne would not be prosecuted because he had little to do with the incident, one deputy said.

The older brother forced the hostages to sit with their backs to him while he held a .45 caliber pistol in each hand, according to one officer.

A call was placed to James Locklear's attorney in Los Angeles after the gunman demanded that his brother not be prosecuted.

"His attorney says he's perfectly satisfied with the the deal," said District Attorney Terry Finney.

About 50 policemen, including several from neighboring communities surrounded the apartment.

Claims She & Wilbur Closest of Friends

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fanne Foxe, the Tidal Basin Bombshell, said in her autobiography released today that she became pregnant by Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.), but had an abortion.

In her book "Fanne Foxe," co-authored with Yvonne Dunleavy who also helped write "The Happy Hooker," the ex-stripper reports that her relationship with Mills, former head of the House Ways and Means Committee, was far from platonic.

Fanne, whose real name is Annabel Battistella, said she became pregnant by Mills eight months before the much publicized incident in which she was fished out of the Tidal Basin in Washington and Mills' had his glasses broken.

She said Mills, then 66, was overjoyed when told he was to be a father. She said she asked him not to reveal her condition but that Mills told everyone, beginning with his wife Polly.

The book reports that it was Polly Mills who advised her to terminate the pregnancy because of her age — 39.

Mrs. Battistella said she decided to have an abortion, not because of her age but because she feared that Mills' drinking and high blood alcohol level might damage the fetus.

She said Mills was unhappy with her decision but she felt it was the only choice open to her.

In her book she also writes of her experiences with group sex, wife swapping and a series of breast implant operations.

Kidnap Victim

The body of Chritine Mazzotti, 19, was found by police buried in a garbage dump this week, one month after her family paid a $2.3 million ransom to her kidnapers. Officials said the girl, Italy's 41st kidnap victim this year, died of an overdose of barbiturates given her on the eve the ransom was paid as the kidnapers prepared to release her. (UPI)

Portuguese Army Head Wants Chief Ousted

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The head of Portugal's army has defied President Francisco da Costa Gomes and called for the ouster of Communistbacked Gen. Vasco Goncalves as armed forces commander.

Gen. Carlos Fabiao, a leading moderate in the armed forces, said the appointment of Goncalves as Portugal's top military commander was a threat to army unity.

"I speak in the name of the army," Fabaio said Tuesday. "The army has no doubts that the figure of Gen. Vasco Goncalves will contribute nothing to the unity of the army, but rather the contrary."

Fabiao's call came a day after Gen. Jose Morais da Silva, the air force commander, said the controversial general "should not have been named armed forces chief of staff."

President Francisco da Costa Gomes criticized Morais da Silva Tuesday for creating "difficulties" but the reprimand appeared to have little impact in halting the growing military opposition to Goncalves.

Fabiao joined a group of leading moderate and radical officers Tuesday at Tancos army base, 85 miles north of Lisbon, for talks on the fate of Goncalves.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D

DECIDING: Q. I don't give out to guys I don't completely trust. I don't completely trust Chris, but I love him. I also hate him for what he does to me. He started it several months ago. It broke us up after three months of closeness. He dropped me for another girl. This lasted two weeks.

When he came back I really told him off. But he was good to me for two weeks and I took him back. This time he stayed with me for two months before he dropped me again for another girl.

You see, he goes for the easy girls. But when he's got what he wants he comes back to me. When he comes back this time should I take him back?—"Home Base" in Georgia.

A. Do not take Chris back as a steady. But do continue to date him, and to date other boys. Chris is going through, it seems to me, what many young men go through — a period of deciding.

If he finally decides for you he may make the best of boy friends and possibly the best of husbands. Do not assume that the other girls he goes out with are "easy." I would be just as valid for others to assume that you are "easy."

STUDIOUS: Q. I am hopelessly in love with Jim. I have lived next door to him for seven years and every day I love him more. He is 20 now and in college. I am 14. When I go to his house to visit he usually sits beside me. Sometimes we go places together but not often.

He is always studying and this is OK with me, because I want him to make it. Please help me.—More and More in Michigan.

A. Jim does not appear to share your adoration. I use that word because I believe what you feel is more worship than genuine love. Admit to yourself that he probably looks upon you as a child. And when school starts soon, spend more of your time thinking about the boys around you in the classes you attend, which are NOT college classes.

For printed answers to your questions about shyness and dating, write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Please enclose a seladdressed, stamped envelope.

Most modern experts use the jump from one to four notrump as a slam invitation, the jump from one to six as a stop bid — not that they aren't stopping pretty high — and the jump from one to five notrump as an all suit Stayman grand slam invitation.

North has only 18 points opposite his partner's notrump opening, but he has two four-card minor suits and is definitely interested in seven, if South can show a four-card fit for either of them.

When South does bid six clubs, North is off and running. His six-diamond call announces that he has grand slam interest. South's six-spade bid accepts the idea of a club grand slam. South has a mere 16-point notrump but his doubleton diamond looks like money from home. Hence, his six-spade bid.

This is enough for North. He bids seven clubs and South has no trouble making the club grand slam. On the other hand, there are only 12 tricks at notrump.

KISSINGER (R), KING KHALED CONFER

Kissinger Working Out Few Existing Problems

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Damascus today for a meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad to lay some of the groundwork for a second-stage Golan Heights truce similar to the one he negotiated between Egypt and Israel.

Earlier, in Amman, the secretary admitted that "a few problems" existed between the United States and Jordan, which also wants Israel to cede territory on the West Bank that was captured in the 1967 Middle East war.

Kissinger held a two-hour meeting with King Hussein and other Jordanian officials in Amman to review the recently concluded Israeli-Egyptian Sinai peace accord.

He is expected to fly back to Washington tonight to report to President Ford on his misssion.

Relations between the United States and Jordan were discussed at length, particularly Hussein's anger at the lack of congressional approval for the sale to Jordan of Hawk missiles.

"There are a few problems which exist, but they are not of the making of the two governments," Kissinger told reporters after the meeting. "We are doing our best and our utmost to rectify the situation."

Jordanian Premier Zeid Rifai, sitting by Kissinger's side, nodded approvingly.

"I explained the significance of the recently concluded agreement which is a further progress towards peace in the Middle East and the U.S. views on the matter," Kissinger said.

Rifai, addressing reporters briefly, said the discussions covered "outstanding issues between our two countries." "We will be able to overcome our difficulties," he said.

Kissinger said that he was "hopeful" that Congress would give a favorable decision on the Hawk missile issue.

Diplomats said the secretary of state wants to set the stage in Damascus for an Israeli-Syrian peace agreeement to follow up the Egyptian-Israeli accord.

Israel and Syria have already given Kissinger permission to sound each other out about the possibility of starting talks toward an interim peace settlement.

Diplomats said Kissinger would also try to talk Syria out of trying to wreck the Israeli-Egyptian agreement, condemned by militants as "a breach of Arab unity."

Saudi Arabia, America's major Arab oil supplier, endorsed the new peace agreement Tuesday during talks between Kissinger and King Khaled at the mountain resort of Taif.

Under the pact, Israel agreed to give up the Abu Rudeis oil fields as well as the Gidi and Mitla mountain passes in the Sinai Desert.

Egypt agreed to let Israeli cargo through the Suez Canal and ease other economic sanctions against the Jewish state.

The key provision of the accord called for sending up to 200 American volunteers to the Sinai Desert to operate electronic surveillance stations between the opposing armies.

U.S. officials said Kissinger would prefer to stop his shuttle diplomacy and instead send a special negotiating ambassador to the Middle East in his place.

Friends said Kissinger has repeatedly insisted he would like to end the arduous, time-consuming shuttles. But they said he never closes the door to a draft.

Saudi Foreign Minister Saud Faisal told reporters in Taif the agreement was "an important step toward a final settlement" of the Middle East conflict.

"We think that the significance of this step provides the impetus for further activity in the field," he said. "We have received assurances of the secretary of the movement of the United States toward a final settlement."

Congress Sharply Divided On Sending Technicians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress appears sharply divided over whether American technicians should be sent into the Sinai Desert to monitor the new Israeli-Egyptian peace agreement.

Returning to work after a month-long vacation, Congress must decide whether to approve a request by President Ford to allow the use of about 150 U.S. civilian technicians to guarantee that no violations occur under the interim peace pact.

Presidential press secretary Ron Nessen said Tuesday that based on a White House check with more than 30 congressional leaders in both parties, Ford believes Congress will approve sending the technicians.

The President was meeting with Republican congressional leaders today on strategy for seeking that approval. This evening he goes to the airport to welcome Secretary of State Henry Kissinger back from his Middle East shuttle diplomacy.

On Thursday Ford and Kissinger will brief congressional leaders on the agreement and other issues.

Ford hopes Congress will give its approval within two weeks.

Congress also returned to the continuing controversy over oil prices. Congressional sources said a major effort will be made next week to override President Ford's veto of a six-month extension of price controls.

Congressional reaction Tuesday to Ford's Middle East request came down hard on both sides of the issue.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said it would "set a bad precedent," and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said he had "serious reservations" about sending Americans into the Sinai.

Both Jackson and Mansfield said they feared an American presence would bring Soviet observers to the Golan Heights region near Syria and lead to a "face-to-face" confrontation between the two superpowers.

China Attacks U.S., Soviets

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — China has attacked the United States and Soviet Union, accusing the two superpowers of plundering the developing nations and preparing for a world war.

In a speech before the U.N. General Assembly, Chinese Foreign Trade Minister Li Chiang called Tuesday for a worldwide revolution to smash the "spheres of influence" of the two superpowers.

He was one of the first speakers during the 12-day U.N. debate on economic aid for developing countries. Britain and the Soviet Union were scheduled to address the assembly later today.

Soviet Ambassador Yakov Malik, one of the Kremlin's deputy foreign min sters, was expected to reply to the Chinese attack.

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan was to follow Malik to the rostrum. Canadian External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen was to speak later this afternoon.

The Chinese minister said the Soviet Union and the United States "are the biggest international exploiters and oppressors today and they are the source of a new world war."

"To prepare for war, they are intensifying their scramble for sources of energy and raw materials, places of strategic importance, outlets for their investment and markets for their commodities..." he said.

He accused them of "establishing and expanding their spheres of influence all over the world and stepping up their plunder and control of the third world."

Li Chiang said the times are ripe for revolution with the international situation "characterized by great disorder."
